

DUFFEY SAYS BRIDGE IS A REAL NECESSITY

Head of Highway Department Supports Walton Bill for Completion of Rondout Creek Bridge and Gives Reasons for so Doing.

Albany, April 11.—(Special to The Freeman)—That the Rondout bridge is of state, and even nation-wide importance at this time was one of the main arguments used by Senator Charles W. Walton in securing favorable action by the senate on his bill appropriating $139,000 "or as much thereof as may be necessary," for the completion of the structure. The same point is expected to count in the consideration of the bill by the assembly.

State Highway Commissioner Edwin Duffey, at the request of the finance committee, of which Senator Sage is chairman, pointed out to the legislature the situation in regard to the bridge which the department strongly favors.

Every other gap in the important route from Albany to New York on the west side of the Hudson is provided for save the crossing over the Rondout. Every student in the Hudson valley is familiar with the situation and representatives of districts in this territory joined with Senator Walton in voting for the passage of the measure.

Commissioner Duffey's Letter. Commissioner Duffey's position on the bridge construction is pointed out in the following letter to Senator Sage and the finance committee of the senate:

April 4, 1918.
Hon. Henry M. Sage, Senate Chamber, Albany, N. Y.

My dear Senator:
Further in reference to Senator Walton's bill for the additional appropriation making possible the perfection of plans for the completion of the Kingston bridge, and in response to your request for any information or views which the department might have in relation thereto, I would say that the situation in regard to this bridge as far as the highway department and the highway law are concerned is unusual in that it is specifically provided by law that this bridge shall be constructed out of that portion of the second fifty million bond issue moneys which were allotted to Ulster county for the improvement of state routes within that county, and this is the only case of that kind in the state. The provision in the law describing the route and bridge reads as follows:

"running thence northerly through the eastern portion of Ulster county to a point on the Rondout creek at or near the present chain ferry known as the 'Sleightsburgh ferry,' thence over said creek into the city of Kingston by suitable bridge to be constructed and maintained by the commission."

Ulster county's share of these moneys for state routes was $456,570.29. Because of the fact that the bridge was to be paid for out of the county's share, the county had but one-third of this amount available for the construction of highways proper in the county, the other two-thirds being taken wholly for the bridge.

The bridge is of state wide importance. One of the most important through routes in the state is the one from New York to Albany on the west side of the Hudson. With the exception of this bridge, every other gap in this route is provided for. Our department has co-operated with the highway commission of the state of New Jersey in order that our joint plans might result in the completion of the entire route from a point opposite the city of New York to New King Mountain.

While as a general policy the department is now and has been strongly opposed to any kind of a special appropriation for the construction of highways, provision for which was made by the two large bond issues heretofore approved and authorized by the people, nevertheless a situation exists in regard to this bridge which is wholly out of the ordinary.

All our plans which were made some time ago when so-called normal prices ruled provided for the completion of this bridge without any additional assistance. The changed condition which is not likely to alter within the time in which this bridge should be constructed makes it impossible to provide therefor without the additional aid which Senator Walton's bill proposes.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) EDWIN DUFFEY,
Commissioner.

18,000 RED CROSS MEMBERS IN COUNTY

Work Done Last Month Breaks Record and his Month Promises Better Still—Business at Executive Committee Meeting.

The meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, held last evening at the supreme court chambers, chairman, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, presiding, was a busy one, and at the same time showed much work being accomplished, and a need of funds.

Following the reading and approving of the minutes of the last meeting as read by the secretary, Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, the various committees represented, reported.

The civilian relief committee, Mrs. Mac Millan in charge, reported home service centers instituted in the city and wherever there is an auxiliary or branch in the county. Courses of special instruction in this phase of relief work have been given in the city, with a representative from each auxiliary and branch and there will be a second course of instructions given in May. Families in the city and county in need are being looked after by this committee. The Hon. Joseph M. Fowler, having charge of the legal part of the civilian relief work reported that some considerable aid had been given to both soldiers and sailors and their families, in the matter of securing allotments, insurance, etc. It had also been the privilege of the committee to hasten the process whereby the families received the allotments, in most cases four and five months late. In one case where there had been a mistake in the amount sent a family, that had been corrected.

Mrs. C. Gordon Reel, chairman of the membership committee, reported that there are now in the county, between 17,500 and 18,000 members of the Red Cross. She said that her work had been and was being supplemented by the entertainment committee, Harry P. Dodge, chairman.

Mr. Dodge spoke of the three concerts given for the benefit of the Red Cross, since the formation of his committee; that given at Miss Burhans' home, that given by the pupils of Miss Schmidtke, and the big concert given by Miss Elsie Hasbrouck, Sergeant Hochstein and Walter Golde. Having acted as manager of this concert, Mr. Dodge presented a complete financial report of the same, showing the total results of $535.58. A vote of thanks was given Mr. Dodge for his able management of the concert and it was also voted to express the appreciation and thanks of the executive committee to all who had given entertainments for the benefit of the chapter.

Frank Covenkall, chairman of the administrative committee, reported that last month the chapter turned out more finished supplies than at any previous time, and further stated that this month still more work would be accomplished.

Mrs. G. D. B. Hasbrouck, chairman of the knitting committee, submitted the following report:

7,000,000 AMERICANS NEEDED IN THE WAR

Will Take Two Years to Get Them Across and Then Another Year to Smash German Military Powers, Says Ex-President Taft.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, April 12.—The United States must put an army of from five to seven million men, fully equipped, on the western front to win the war. It will require two years to do this and probably another year to smash German militarism.

This was the declaration of former President William Howard Taft addressing the New York state legislature in joint session this afternoon. "The hearts and minds of everyone in this country are today centered on the west front," Mr. Taft declared. "Upon the result there seems to hang the fate of the world. The crisis is there impending, the like of which the world has not seen in two or three centuries. There William Hohenzollern and the Potsdam gang are flinging two million men against a 75-mile front bravely upheld by the French and English and a small force of our own boys."

"This prompts me to determine never to stop urging until we have actually accomplished the putting into training a force of our men to the number of from five million to seven million. It may take two years. Let us face that possibility. What is the use of being optimistic of a speed we cannot attain. When we get these men and their equipment over there, then victory is ours."

GREENWALD SETS PATRIOTIC EXAMPLE

One Citizen Willing to Help the Government in a Practical Way by Spending Real Money to Help Sell Bonds.

Today The Freeman breaks one of its office rules cheerfully at the request of Max Greenwald, the Broadway shoe dealer, who asked that he be allowed to pay for the insertion of a Liberty Loan advertisement on the front page of the paper in order to aid the government in carrying on the war. Rules, when breaking them will aid the country in its time of stress and trial, are made to be broken, and there is no more necessary and effective way to aid in carrying on the war than by buying Liberty Bonds. That is the opinion of both Mr. Greenwald and The Freeman, and Mr. Greenwald does not think it fair that The Freeman should carry the whole burden of giving publicity to the Liberty Loan campaign. Mr. Greenwald saw a cartoon in a trade paper and believed he could serve his country by giving it publicity in Kingston. So he wrote for permission to use it, procured the cut and then paid for its insertion in The Freeman today, realizing that the paper was already doing all it could afford to without pay. There are other cartoons and other advertisements of the Liberty Loan that The Freeman can procure if any other citizen feels impelled to follow the example of Mr. Greenwald.

"MONEY TALKS" FOR OUR COUNTRY

Mayor's Liberty Bond Appeal at Spring Street German Lutheran Church Anticipated by Pastor, Church and Society.

A patriotic note was struck at the fifteenth annual Easter concert of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church Thursday evening from the singing by the audience that filled every seat in the big hall of "The Star Spangled Banner" to the brief address of Mayor Canfield, who spoke of Liberty Bonds, and the response of Pastor A. Schmidtke. The concert was one of the most successful ever given in the city and will be repeated again this evening.

The school hall in which the concert was given was beautifully decorated with the national colors and Easter lilies and every seat was occupied by an audience who found that the program was one of the best that had ever been prepared by the church. It was an inspiring sight to see and hear the big audience rise when the orchestra played the first strains of our national anthem and sing it through with a will.

Following the singing a welcome song, "If We Were You, and You Were Us," was prettily rendered by ten girls which was followed by a motion song by a group of the church, "Mama Won't You Buy Me a Baby?"

Herman LaTour, one of the best tenors in this section, then sang "Colleen Arvon," which was exceptionally good and he was followed by the Misses Helen and Angela Cashion, who gave a very fine duet.

The members of the day school sang "There are Soldiers Who Don't Wear the Blue," which was good.

An orchestra composed of H. Stitzel, violin; E. Dowell, flute; F. Stitzel, cornet; and W. Smith, piano, rendered "Cavalleria Rusticana," which was followed by Mrs. Herman LaTour, who sang "Rose in the Bud" and "In the Purple Glow." She has a most pleasing soprano voice and sings in the best of taste.

Mayor Canfield Speaks.

This closed the first part of the program and Pastor Schmidtke then introduced Mayor Canfield, who spoke briefly. The mayor humorously referred to the fact that he was sandwiched in between the two parts. He said that to speak on Liberty Bonds required a much longer time than the four minutes he had been allowed, but after glancing over the patriotic decorations of the hall with our colors everywhere he realized it did not need words to call attention to our duty and our country in this crisis. He said he was sure that some would be much better if they were present themselves that evening and they would be carried away with the real American spirit. Our government asks us to support it in the big task that it set for us. We can help in many ways. One of these is the great opportunity to affirm and approve our loyalty and love by the purchase of Liberty Bonds.

The mayor called attention to the fact that the money was used for various purposes to equip our soldier boys who are fighting our battles for us. It is also used in building ships to carry provisions across. In buying Liberty Bonds we make no donation to our country, we simply loan the money to our government. There is no question but Ulster county will raise its quota in this third loan.

He called attention to the fact that part of the money comes back to us and referred to the shipbuilding on the Island Dock which gives employment to the men of the city. He closed by urging all to support

NEIGHBORHOOD ROW IN NORTH RONDOUT

All Because Remisgenki Bought Liberty Bonds He Said — Mrs. Buboltz Accused Him of Having Another Wife and Hot Time Followed.

Ludwig Remisgenki of No. 7 Larch street, and Mrs. Michael Buboltz of No. 174 Third avenue, were in police court this morning each seeking a warrant for the arrest of the other. In fact both paid a hurried call to police headquarters Thursday afternoon seeking a warrant and were informed they had better see Judge Schirick this morning about the matter.

This morning Ludwig and his wife were present. They had retained former City Judge Brinnier to look after their interests. Mrs. Buboltz was also present accompanied by one of her young sons and a neighbor's boy, one John Van Steenburgh.

Ludwig told his side of the story first. He claimed the trouble started some time ago and was all caused by the fact that he had bought three Liberty Loan Bonds. According to story Mrs. Buboltz was all to blame and not only called him names of a vile nature but also addressed the same remarks to his wife. He showed some marks on his face where he claimed Mrs. Buboltz dug him with her finger nails. He also said that she had told him it would be best to "Keep President Wilson, he started the war."

On the other hand Mrs. Buboltz claimed Thursday afternoon she was hanging up clothes and Ludwig was passing her house to secure a pail of water from the spring and he came into her yard. She said he struck her in the jaw with his fist and then hit her with a rock in the knee.

Ludwig denied the charge and Mrs. Buboltz returned to the attack. She talked with machine gun rapidity and got going so fast the court had to stop her and have young Van Steenburgh, who claimed to have seen it all, tell the story.

Every once in a while Mrs. Buboltz, who appeared to be "hot-headed" would talk rapidly until the court rapped for silence and young Van Steenburgh told her to "shut up" in Polish which to the court spectators sounded like he was saying "chicko."

Mrs. Buboltz accused Ludwig of having another wife in the old country.

Then there was something doing. Ludwig sprang to his feet and with upraised arm and clenched fist he started for her with blood in his eye applying remarks that were not of a printable nature. He would have surely struck Mrs. Buboltz in the face if his attorney had not jumped in and grasped the unraised arm.

"You can see how vicious she is?" remarked Judge Brinnier earnestly to Judge Schirick, "when she will make such a charge in open court."

Looks to me like fifty fifty on that viciousness charge," remarked the court.

Finally after the court had heard both sides he stated he would not issue a warrant to either party as it was evident that they were both to blame. He warned both Ludwig and Mrs. Buboltz to refrain from home and leave each other severely alone.

This did not suit Mrs. Buboltz who informed the court that she was "going to get even." She said she was going home but she was not going to let any one come in her yard and hit her without getting back at him.

Judge Schirick warned her again that she had better behave herself and keep away from Ludwig and his family or she would spend some time in jail.

Both Ludwig and Mrs. Buboltz seem to be possessed of hot tempers and it is only a question of time when they will pay another visit to the city hall provided they are in condition to get there.

Instinct Stronger Than Reason.

That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by the following incidents: There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steamboat a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever anyone approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile challenged anyone to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattler strike at it. There was no danger, and if seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

Reliable Workers.

Victims of nervous and other ill should keep out in the air and sunshine, get all the exercise possible, and then go to bed "with the chickens." This "formula" will woo sleep when all other helps fail; but late hours—postponed retiring—will only add to those persons' woes. Early rising and early retiring always go hand in hand. Hence the business girl or woman should, if she has her own best interests at heart, taboo late retiring. Otherwise it is out of the question to expect that she can report at her desk in the workroom with calm cool nerves, or feeling physically able to dispose of her day's tasks whatever they may be.

Curiosity.

A dashing lieutenant colonel, ex-member of the general staff, was approached by a recently drafted man. "What might your name be? Do you belong to this bunch?" "I'm the colonel in charge." "Wal, I see the balance of 'em busy around here, and I don't see you doing anything. How does a fellow go about getting your job?"—Everybody's Magazine.

WALLKILL

Wallkill, April 12.—Wallkill is doing her bit in the Third Liberty Loan drive. B. S. Galloway, as chairman with his able committee consisting of T. N. Boyd, Dr. Stephens, William Bruce, Charles L. Runk, F. J. Wilkins, John Gilbert, George Halliday, Nelson Evans, D. G. Crosswell, Rev. Garrett DeMott, are sparing nothing to make the drive a success. The woman's committee, with Mrs. George Halliday as chairman, assisted by Mrs. M. J. DeWitt, Miss Edna Garrison, Mrs. F. N. Boyd, Mrs. B. S. Galloway, Mrs. I. A. Crowell and Lillian Menzies are working with 20th century enthusiasm. The district has been divided in sections which will be canvassed by house to house visitation. Automobiles with all the symbols of patriotism and Liberty Loan emblems will go through the town seeing that every last one has his or her name written there on the honor roll as a Liberty Loan subscriber. April 26 has been set aside as Liberty Loan Victory Day by the foregoing committees. There will be a parade in the afternoon and in the evening two speakers, a woman for the woman's committee, and a man for the man's committee, of which further particulars will be announced at an early issue of this paper.

The Woman's Club has invited the Red Cross Auxiliary to join with them on Friday afternoon of this week to hear their Red Cross program, conducted by Mrs. B. S. Galloway.

Rita Wilson and Oscar Williams of Wallkill were among the boys of 14 vision 3 who left Nanpoch Friday for Camp Dix, N. J.

Sergeant Clifford Caspell spent the week end with his mother here. We are always glad to see the boys in khaki on their furloughs.

Mrs. W. V. Deyo entertained the members of the Thimble Club on Thursday afternoon last.

The presentation of the service flag at the Wallkill Reformed Church took place Sunday evening in a most impressive manner. The church was crowded. The decorations were indeed unique, the national colors being represented even in the floral decorations of red and white carnations tied with blue ribbon. The service flag with sixteen stars, the gift of the Sunday school, was presented Tuesday which was very beneficial to the town and gave the farmers a few soundings while the 1st Provisional Regiment N. Y. G., from Camp Martin participated. A patriotic sermon which will long be remembered and which will bring many dollars into the Third Liberty Loan, was delivered by the pastor, the Rev. Garrett DeMott.

KINGSTON, N. Y., APRIL 12, 1918.

Government officials are speeding up in order to establish a permanent airmail service between Washington, Philadelphia and New York by the first of May. The same speed exercised in the production of airplanes for our forces in France probably would have resulted in something different from the condition now existing, which finds not a fighting plane in France, while thirty-seven machines in France by the first of July is the most that can be expected. In fact, a Washington despatch states, less than thirty-seven machines will be in France by that time. The new airmail service will permit an airplane leaving Washington on the noon schedule to make the late afternoon deliveries over the entire city of New York; to make this delivery by train, letters now have to be mailed before 9 a. m. Meanwhile complaints of the ordinary mail service in all parts of the United States continue to be well founded, and our American soldiers in France join with the soldiers of the Allies in asking that the airplanes for use there be hastened. And meanwhile we have ordered from England six thousand of the English Rolls-Royce engine aeroplanes for battleplane use. Do we daily with toys at the expense of our fighting machines? George Creel denounces critics of America's war preparations as "blind Samsons," "who would tear down the temple to destroy those at the head." Just criticism has no such object, but it would readily speed war preparations at the expense of inefficiency, futility and fancies, that the temple of American freedom may be saved from the Hun for the enjoyment of generations of Americans yet unborn.

AMERICAN SLANG ABROAD.

It has been interesting to note the conquering march of American slang abroad, as indicated by its adoption in the utterances of prominent Englishmen and English newspapers which have been carried to this side of the Atlantic during recent months. For example, Lord Northcliffe followed his observations in this country with the confidence assurance to his countrymen that Americans knew what they were "up against" in this war. Solemn English statesmen have been actually reported as promising on announcing some important plan that "we will put it across." British generals have been represented as concluding their exhortations in the field with, "Soldiers of England, it's up to you!" A quite elderly member of Parliament, as he witnessed the failure of a leader in that body, was heard to say: "I knew he would get in bad." And as for newspapers, even the dignified old Manchester Guardian has been known of late to use "some" in the superlative sense. English slang, on the other hand, has been slow to take root over here, either because it is less readily comprehended or because our supply from native sources is amply sufficient. We have adopted "over the top," "slacker," and "doing our bit," but for one reason or another we fight shy of "side," "jigger" and a host of other obscure expressions that are in constant use in the British army in France.

UNBELIEVABLE.
The older generation can remember amusing stories to the effect that certain isolated Southern mountaineers did not hear of the war of 1861-5 until it was over. Robert Ingersoll once even ventured to tell a story of a North Carolina hamlet which did not hear of Revolution of 1776 until about 1816, whereupon every able-bodied man in a community of "good people but slow" promptly volunteered. Such stories in the past, however exaggerated, could furnish amusement for a passing moment because they had as a more or less reasonable basis the complete ignorance and scarcely less complete ignorance of a few remote American communities during the first half of the nineteenth century.

But there is no such basis for the story that a German gardener living near Swarthmore, a few miles from Philadelphia, did not hear of the present world-war until the other day and therefore did not know that he should have enrolled himself as an alien enemy. It is quite possible that he had not hitherto heard of this requirement, but the claim that he did not know this country was at war or even that his fatherland had been at war for nearly four years is manifestly preposterous. You can trust a German to be aware of Germany's war even though resident in the remotest corner of the planet. Evidently the Swarthmore gardener feared he was in trouble and allowed his imagination to assist him in the manufacture of an excuse for his negligence.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Bix—"It is said that 'we shall pass away as a tale that is told.' Dis—"But tales that are told don't pass away; they are forever being told over again."—Boston Transcript.

"Sir, I came to ask you to give me your daughter's hand." "All right, young man; if you're looking for it you can generally find it in my pocket."—Baltimore American.

"We must learn to pay our attention to life's annoyances." "That's what I'm doing. I've gotten so that the alarm clock can ring every morning without my noticing it."—Washington Star.

"Mr. Dubwaite, I do wish you wouldn't interrupt me!" "But, my dear sir, would you impose an unnecessary hardship?" "What do you mean, sir?" "You surely don't expect me to live with you for years and years and never open my mouth."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Lawyer—"Have you ever been in jail?" Witness—"Yes, sir, once." Lawyer (triumphantly)—"Ah! For how long?" Witness—"Long enough to whitewash a cell which was to be occupied by a lawyer who cheated one of his clients."—Boston Transcript.

Proof of Hunger.
"Really, you should feed your hounds more, Brother Johnson," mildly chided the presiding elder. "They look half starved."

"Aw, them dogs is natcherly lank," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "I don't consider 'em hungry till they begin to bite the children."—Kansas City Star.

VENGEANCE AT LAST.

The druggist danced and chortled till the bottles danced on the shelves. "What's up?" asked the soda clerk. "Have you been taking something?"

"No. But do you remember when our water pipes were frozen last winter?"

"Yes, but what?"

"Well, the plumber who fixed them has just come in to have a prescription filled."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Shocking.
An elderly lady of very prim and severe aspect was seated next a young couple, who were discussing the merits of their motor cars.

"What color is your body?" asked the young man of the girl at his side, meaning, of course, the body of her motor.

"Oh, mine is pink. What is yours?" "Mine," replied the man, "is brown with wide yellow stripes."

This was too much for the old lady. Rising from the table, she exclaimed:

"When young people come to asking each other the color of their bodies at a dinner party, it is time I left the room."—Tit-Bits.

Too Numerous.
A darkey employed as an office boy in Kentucky came to work one morning with a face that looked as though it had been run through a meat grinder.

"Henry," demanded his surprised employer, "what in the world has happened to you?"

"Well, sah, boss," explained Henry, "I got into a little argument last night with another nigger, and one thing led to another till I up and bit at him. Well, sah, it seemed lak dat irritated him. He took and bit me down and stomped me in de stomach. Honest, boss, I never did git so sick of a nigger in mah life!"—Saturday Evening Post.

An Impressive Memorial.
During the past week one of the finest memorials in this vicinity was erected on the Osterhout plot in the Wiltwyck Cemetery in memory of the late Mary O. Dimmick. The memorial is an obelisk, made from extra dark Quincy granite, very highly polished, and is handsomely designed, and the size of the same is as follows: Five feet, six inches in length, four feet in width, and ten feet in height, the same weighing over ten tons. On the front of the memorial is a beautiful statuary bronze tablet bearing the inscription of all those in the plot, while on the reverse side is a plain statuary bronze tablet bearing the family names Osterhout-Dimmick. The bronze tablet on the front weighs over four hundred lbs., and is the largest tablet in this section. The work was executed by the Graham Granite and Marble Works, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Friendly Rockers

Queer how the family will pass by the big overstuffed chairs and make for these plain, homelike woodrockers that just naturally find their way into every home in the land. Their mission is embodied in the simple word SERVICE. Nightly—since the days of our grandmothers—they have rocked tired heads to sleep in hundreds of homes to the music of world-old lullabies.

Friendly family rockers are here in wide variety—built of Oak or Mahogany, with curves just shaped for comfort, some with leather slip seats—the substantial kind that you may hand down to your children some day. And plenty of inexpensive ones, good-looking and good wearing. Prices from

He's dog tired, more likely than not, and mighty glad to pull the big leather chair in front of the glowing gas log in the library and enjoy a good smoke while he scans the news of the day.

There's nothing more inviting and comfortable than a good leather-covered suite—providing it's built right, with spring seats upholstered in masterly fashion. Such suits are here in inviting array, covered with real black or Spanish leather, or durable replicas that can scarcely be told in appearance from the real thing.

The Feminine Ending.
There is quite a campaign afoot against the use of the feminine term "ess" in words which are purely English, and it is to be hoped that it will succeed in putting an end to such a concoction as "conductress," which is endeavoring to creep in, in spite of the very cold shoulder given of late to "authoress" and "poetess." It is ugly for one thing, and for another, it is bad English. "Ess" should be added only to a word which is a direct importation from the French language. For instance, there is no objection to "habess" or "duchess," those words are correct, and have long been sanctioned. It might be said that sanction for "poetess" is to be found in such a mass ter of English as Dryden, for he speaks of Mrs. Anne Killigrew as a poetess. The best reply to this is that, for once, Dryden was wrong, both in his estimate of the lady's literary powers, and in the form of the word which he used to express that estimate.—Christian Science Monitor.

Rifling the Pilgrims.
 In times of peace devout Moslems arrived in Palestine from all parts of the world to perform the Hajj—pilgrimage—make their supplications to Allah in the Holy Sanctuaries of Mecca, kiss the Kaaba, and take part in other religious ceremonies. On arriving at the principal port, Jeddah, they were met post haste by hosts of purse-cutters, guides—practiced scoundrels—and others, all keen on lightening the pockets of the pilgrims under all manner of pretenses. The Turkish government used to keep all the pilgrims in Mecca for a fortnight at least after the Hajj, so that they might spend all their money there and go back penniless to their countries.

All of Practical Value.
 The government fisheries bureau says that the skin of the codfish furnishes an excellent leather, tough as parchment and very durable. The same is true of salmon skin, which the Indians along the Yukon river, in Alaska, have long utilized for clothing. Eskimoes are employed in Europe for binding books, and in Egypt shoe soles are made from the skins of certain fishes caught in the Red sea. Sturgeon skin affords a handsome ornamental leather, and the hide of the armored fish is much valued in Europe, being covered with horny plates that can be polished to an ivorylike finish.

Propagating Alaskan Reindeer.
 The total number of Alaskan reindeer is distributed in herds among some 30 stations, 18 of these being owned by the government and the remainder by church missions. The Lapps are anxious to get deer, and look upon them as a good investment for their earnings. They usually take deer in preference to cash for services when an opportunity is offered. The government does not sell deer, this being done by natives and missions alone. The various missions are supplied with a herd of 100 animals on a loan for a period of five years by the government. At the end of this period the original number must be returned. The mission retains the increase in fawns, which amount to several hundred, derived from the loan.

Ocean Salt.
 The oceans occupy three-fourths of the surface of the earth. A mile down in the sea the water has a pressure of a ton to every square inch. If a box six feet deep was filled with sea water, which was then allowed to evaporate, there would be two inches of salt left in the bottom of the box. Taking the average depth of the ocean to be three miles, there would be a layer of salt 440 feet thick covering the bottom. In case all the water should evaporate, in many places, especially in the far North, the water freezes from the bottom upwards.

WOMAN'S VICTORY
By KITTY PARSONS.
(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"If you love me, you wouldn't want to go to war! I don't see it at all. You're married, and even if I'm not dependent on you, I don't want you to go—you'll be drafted if they need you badly enough. I can't understand the way you feel at all—you just can't care about me, that's all!" The words came in a rush and the girl who had spoken was trembling with excitement and on the verge of tears.

"You're right, dear, you don't understand," agreed her husband. "You know perfectly well that I do care about you, but there's a special call for men in my line of work just now, and I feel more like a slacker every day I stay away. Can't you see how I feel Dorothy?"

"No, I can't just see it, but if you want to go you needn't stay on my account. I thought a man's wife usually came first, but I guess I'm wrong. By all means, go, if you want to leave me."

"You're talking nonsense, Dorothy! And of course you know if you put up that sort of an argument, I won't go—at least, not until I'm needed more than I am now. I wish you did not feel as you do," he went on, with an attempt at cheerfulness, "but it can't be helped, I suppose. I'm off for town now—it's late, too. Good-by."

Dorothy caught her breath in a sob as she watched him disappear down the path. It was the first time in two years that they had been married that Tom had gone off without kissing her good-by.

It was with a sense of defeat rather than victory that Dorothy went about her household duties that morning. Just as she was starting for the bridge club that afternoon, the door bell rang and Polly Anderson breezed in. Polly was the newest bride in their set.

"Oh, Dot," she cried, "I'm so thrilled I can hardly speak! Bob's got a commission as first lieutenant and I'm so proud of him I don't know what to do! Isn't it wonderful?"

Dorothy forgot all about the bridge club and sat down.

"But he'll be sent away, won't he?" she queried vaguely.

"Of course, stupid! You didn't suppose he'd stay here, did you? No, indeed! He's going South a week from today for a while and I suppose he will be sent abroad from there—ever so many of them are."

"How terrible! I'm so very sorry for you, dear!"

"Well, you needn't be! I'm so full of pride over Bob and love for my country thrown in, that there simply isn't room for any other feeling. Don't waste any sympathy on me!"

"But, Polly, you don't want him to go—you sound as if you really did."

Polly held her proud little head higher than ever and winked back a tear.

"If a woman really loves her husband," she began steadily, "she does not actually want to get rid of him. But when his country calls and he hears the call himself, she knows he must go. If he were deaf to that call and she is a true American woman, she could never feel really proud of him again. You understand how it is, Dorothy—you must feel the same yourself about Tom. Every true woman does."

Dorothy sat very still, but when Polly rose to go, she kissed her with a new respect in her manner. She had quite forgotten the bridge club.

When Tom came home a trifle earlier than usual, he found his wife seated before a fire in the living room, busily winding yarn.

"Why, Dot, what are you doing?"

"Starting a sweater for you to take away with you," she returned promptly.

Then, at his look of amazement, she ran to him, and seizing the lapels of his coat, almost fiercely, looked up into his face appealingly.

"I've been all wrong, Tom," she told him. "I didn't understand how it was. Of course you've got to go—I didn't realize how men felt about this thing—or women, either, for that matter! But now I see it all, just as plain as day, and I want you to go as soon as you're ready—I'll help you every bit I can, too!"

Tom stared at her for a moment. Then he caught her in his arms and held her so close that she could scarcely breathe.

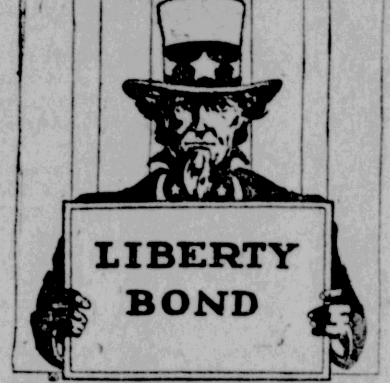

"I can't leave you, darling—I simply can't!" he whispered, and waited for the expected acquiescence. But Dorothy pushed him away and looked straight into his eyes again.

"Yes, you can, dear," she said with a new firmness. "I wouldn't have you stay for anything in the world now, and I never loved you half so much as I do at this minute. It's the only thing to do and if other women can give their men up, I guess I can, too. I'm proud that you want to go—it would break my heart to have you feel a slacker, now that I understand. I was one myself this morning, but I'm not any more."

After a few minutes' intermission, she added: "I never was so unhappy in my life. This morning I wanted you here. Now I love you too much to keep you from going. Aren't women queer?"

"No, they're wonderful," he returned promptly. "But you are the most wonderful one of all!"

And she didn't even deny it.

VANWAGENEN'S"Fittest" Under the Arctic Circle.

We think of Greenland as a frozen and desolate land, fit only for the abode of the hardy Eskimos. And yet in Finland, in a severe northern climate, has grown up a hardy and virile race. Perhaps it was because only the sturdiest could survive under such conditions, for isolation bred self-reliance and industry was necessary to existence. At any rate the fact remains that the Finns have developed a civilization that is unique and of interest. It is not surprising to one familiar with the Finns and their history, to know that a republic has been proclaimed. No people are more truly democratic. Under the autocratic rule of the czars Finland maintained her democratic institutions, and it was the only part of Russia where the traveler was free to move about without having a demand made almost daily for his passport. The Russian calendar which is 13 days behind our own was ignored and in every way the public and social customs differed from those of the Russians.—Nevin O. Winter, in the Christian Herald.

"Yes"—a Forgotten Word.

Years ago it was quite a common thing to hear the word "yes" used in general conversation. With the passage of time, however, that excellent and refined vocable has become as thoroughly extinct as the Dodo bird and the three-toed Megasalpinx. Today, alas! the nearest in sound to the original affirmative are "yeh," "yep," "yup" or "yip-py." Other current synonyms are "uh-huh" and, in New England, an aggravating neutral hum of sounds something like "um." This distressing aversion to the use of "yes" has given rise, in the inventive American mind, to a number of phrases which mean the same thing, but which will not permit one to accuse the speaker of having uttered the short word. Such are the elegant "You said it," "Ain't it the truth?" "You said a pafeful," and many others too numerous to mention.—Life.

Unpleasant Type of Man.

The meanest type of other self is the one that saves all the dregs for the home folks. This bland actor outdoes himself all day in efforts to please and turns his other self loose in the evening on those to whom he owes most. He's a mean character. He tucks all the little unpleasantnesses under his coat during the day to deal them out with interest to the family after supper. At heart he's just a small, cowardly edition of what a man ought to be. Instead of fighting his battles where the foe is he uncorks the viol of his colic among his friends and usually succeeds in making them all miserable. And this, too, in view of the fact that it does nothing to better his prospects for avoiding the unpleasantnesses of tomorrow.—Exchange.

Royal Needlewomen.

Most of the European queens noted in history's pages were expert needlewomen. Mary Queen of Scots is said to have been particularly clever with the needle. Hardwick hall, being adorned with many of her tapestries. Applique was popular in the middle ages, not only on quilts, but on wearing apparel. A peculiar court custom sprang up in the reign of Charles I. that known as "drizzling," according to an old text. This term was applied to the rimping out of the gold threads of wonderful Chinese embroideries to obtain the brand for their gowns. One noblewoman wrote that "all the ladies who do not play cards pick gold. It is the most general fashion I ever saw, and they all carry bags containing the necessary tools."—Exchange.

NEIGHBORHOOD ROW IN NORTH RONDOUT

All Because Remisgenaki Bought Liberty Bonds. He Said—Mrs. Buboltz Accused Him of Having Another Wife and Hot Time Followed.

Ludwig Remisgenaki of No. 7 Larch street, and Mrs. Michael Buboltz of No. 174 Third avenue, were in police court this morning each seeking a warrant for the arrest of the other. In fact both paid a hurried call to police headquarters Thursday afternoon seeking a warrant and were informed they had better see Judge Schirick this morning about the matter.

This morning Ludwig and his wife were present. They had retained former City Judge Brininger to look after their interests. Mrs. Buboltz was also present accompanied by one of her young sons and a neighbor's boy, one John Van Steenburgh.

Ludwig told his side of the story first. He claimed the trouble started some time ago and was all caused by the fact that he had bought three Liberty Loan Bonds. According to story Mrs. Buboltz was all to blame and not only called him names of a vile nature but also addressed the same remarks to his wife. He showed some marks on his face where he claimed Mrs. Buboltz dug him with her finger nails. He also said that she had told him it would be best to "Kee! President Wilson, he started the war."

On the other hand Mrs. Buboltz claimed Thursday afternoon she was hanging up clothes and Ludwig was passing her house to secure a pair of pants from the spring and he came into her yard. She said he struck her in the jaw with his fist and then hit her with a rock in the knee.

Ludwig denied the charge and Mrs. Buboltz returned to the attack. She talked with machine gun rapidity and got going so fast the court had to stop her and have young Van Steenburgh, who claimed to have seen it all, tell the story.

Every once in a while Mrs. Buboltz, who appeared to be "hot-headed" would talk rapidly until the court rapped for silence and young Van Steenburgh told her to "shut up" in Polish which to the court spectators sounded like he was saying "chicko."

Mrs. Buboltz accused Ludwig of having another wife in the old country.

Then there was something doing. Ludwig sprang to his feet and with upraised arm and clenched fist he started for her with blood in his eye applying remarks that were not of a printable nature. He would have surely struck Mrs. Buboltz in the face if his attorney had not jumped in and grasped the upraised arm. "You can see how vicious she is?" remarked Judge Brininger earnestly to Judge Schirick, "when she will make such a charge in open court."

"Looks to me like fifty on that viciousness charge," remarked the court.

Finally after the court had heard both sides he stated he would not issue a warrant to either party as it was evident that they were both to blame. He warned both Ludwig and Mrs. Buboltz to return home and leave each other severely alone.

This did not suit Mrs. Buboltz who informed the court that she was "going to get even." She said she was going home but she was not going to let any one come in her yard and hit her without getting back at him.

Judge Schirick warned her again that she had better behave herself and keep away from Ludwig and his family or she would spend some time in jail.

Both Ludwig and Mrs. Buboltz seem to be possessed of hot tempers and it is only a question of time when they will pay another visit to the city hall provided they are in condition to get there.

Instinct Stronger Than Reason. That even in man instinct is sometimes stronger than reason is illustrated by the following incidents. There had been shipped on a Mississippi river steamer a box with a glass cover, containing a very active rattlesnake. Whenever anyone approached the box the serpent would strike the cover. The owner of the reptile, challenged anyone to hold his finger on the glass and let the rattlesnake strike at it. There was no danger and it seemed an easy thing to do. First one and then another tried it, but when the snake gave its vicious spring the finger was invariably drawn back with a jerk. Instinct was stronger than reason and will combined.

Reliable Workers. Victims of nervous and other ills should keep out in the air and sunshine. Get all the exercise possible, and then go to bed "with the chickens." This "formula" will woe sleep when all other helps fail; but late hours—postponed retiring—will only add to these persons' woes. Early rising and early retiring always go hand in hand. Hence, the business girl or woman should, if she has her own best interests at heart, taboo late retiring. Otherwise it is out of the question to expect that she can report at her desk or in the workroom with calm cool nerves, or feeling physically able to do the day's tasks whatever they may be.

Curiosity. A dashing lieutenant colonel, ex-member of the general staff, was approached by a recently drafted man. "What might your name be? Do you belong to this bunch?" "I'm the colonel in charge." "Well, I see the balance of 'em here around here, and I don't see you doing anything. How does a fellow go about getting your job?"—Everybody's Magazine.

The Spirit That Will Sell the Liberty Loan

The following letter was addressed to Professor Copeland of Harvard. It was written by a young man who, after service as a private on the Mexican border, returned to college and took his degree in 1917. He has since married:

"United States Naval Aviation Detachment,
"Massachusetts Institute of Technology,
"March 6, 1918.

"Excuse the paper, but there is something on my mind that has got to be gotten rid of, and this will do as well as note paper. I take it for granted that you know I'm at last in the service here at the ground school, for which I am thankful.

"Well, Copey, my twin brother (an army aviator), was killed in France last week. You never know him, because he went to Yale, but he was a fine fellow. He would have been manager of the football team there last fall if he had stayed in college, and he was president of Scroll and Keys when he left for France. That is not an infallible proof that he was all right, but it shows what his own class thought of him and you can take my word for it anyway that you don't meet a man of his ability and kindness in every day's journey you make. He once fell off a cliff—perhaps I told you about it—and was very badly hurt and had to stay out of school for a year with a bad foot, and I think that accident made him very patient and very kind and thoughtful of other people. He was really held in affectionate regard by more older people than any boy of his age I know, and of course, I swore by him and he by me. He was closer to me than anybody else, and I loved him as my best friend and brother. And now he has been killed.

"It really seems impossible that a boy who had as much promise as he had should be killed that way. I had always felt that if there was a God he would take care of men who always tried to do right as they saw the right, and for a day or two I was sick and discouraged and felt that even God had gone back on me. But I can see now that perhaps after all it was a very wonderful privilege for him to die in that way—in defense of his country and doing his best to uphold the right as he saw it—and if I have to go the same way I shall regard it as an honor and a privilege.

"But I am not hoping for it, and I know only too well that perhaps I am not worthy of it anyway. My chief concern now is to get abroad and when I get there to do my damndest to avenge my brother's death. I won't stand for anything less than the complete conquering of the devils who let this hell on earth loose. Whatever my part is to be I intend that it shall at least be one that is felt by some German or German, and I have gritted my teeth to see this thing through and hang on like a bulldog until the end. I can do anything now that is at all possible, and, by God, I intend to!

"It is not only this loss and my sorrow over it that have given me this confidence and determination. I realize now, and I only wish that every man, woman and child in this country could and would realize, that we are up against the wickedest and most powerful force of evil that the world has ever seen and that it is going to be a grueling conflict that will test our country right up to the breaking point—a finish fight, with no holds or blows barred—that will take every grain of sand we have and every ounce of fighting strength to win. And so I'm in it on that basis, and if it is possible for one atom in the mass to influence the result I am either going to influence it or be killed trying.

"That's the way I feel, and if you can make other people feel that way you will be continuing the good work you were doing when I left college."

The above article was received by the Liberty Loan Committee in New York from Prof. C. T. Copeland of Harvard.

FIGHTING SPIRIT STRONG IN FARMERS

Dairy Director Hogue Says He Has Never Met a Pacifist Among Them.

Have you ever met a farmer pacifist? The chances are you have not. At any rate, George E. Hogue, director of the Dairy Bureau of the New York state department of farms and markets, says that he has met none, although he has very wide acquaintance among men in agricultural lines. Mr. Hogue said:

"I have been familiar with farming conditions all my life, and my acquaintance with the farmers leads me to believe that as large a proportion are truly patriotic as those engaged in other professions. I have yet to meet the first farmer pacifist. I believe them to be as deeply interested in winning the war as any body of men in our nation. I am confident that every farmer who is able will buy Liberty Bonds, and I am sure many of them who are best qualified would gladly act on the committees in their respective counties and towns.

"The farmers have met with many disappointments and discouragements resulting from the unsettled war conditions, and their patience in many instances has been sorely tried. But he, with all others, has learned to bear with these things as incidents of war fare. The last season he demonstrated that he could increase production even with the shortage of labor that existed, the increase in some products being so great that instead of a scarcity there is today found to be a real surplus. I believe he will again the coming season more than do his bit in raising food and will also respond readily in purchasing Liberty Bonds. I know of no safer investment."

EDITORIAL.

NO TRENCHES ON U. S. SOIL.

Has it ever occurred to you what might happen were the Flanders front defenses to crack beneath the pressure of the German drive? What would become of France and of the allied forces there now? What would be the fate of our army? And where might the front line trenches ultimately be?

If the Germans break through they are almost certain to risk everything in a naval way upon a last clash with England's fleet. And should they by any chance be victorious the next move would be against America direct. We want no invading German hordes upon American soil. We want this war to be fought out in Europe. So America must do its utmost both in men and money. It is up to us stay-at-homes to furnish the money—to buy Liberty Bonds.

New Type of "Destroyer." The recent report that the United States is building a new type of flush-deck destroyer, having a very high speed and a minimum of hitting surface, has aroused much speculation among interested laymen as to the details of these boats, which, it has been predicted, will revolutionize sea

PLAN SUBURBAN LOAN CAMPAIGN

Rich men who transact practically all their business in New York city, but own country places in Westchester county, on Long Island or in New Jersey will be asked during the coming Liberty Loan drive to place at least a part of their subscriptions through the committees representing the communities in which their suburban homes are located.

By so doing they will, it is argued, help the Liberty Loan workers in the outlying districts get their quotas and thus stimulate interest in the campaign in a large territory contiguous to Greater New York.

"While we recognize that for banking reasons it is necessary for those men to place the bulk of the Liberty Loan subscriptions through New York city banks," the chairman for one of the outlying district committees explained recently, "there is no doubt that they could do much to give an impetus to the campaign if they helped the 'home town' workers secure their quotas. In the majority of cases this would be accomplished if only a small part of their subscription was diverted to the local committee.

"Looking at it in one way, it really doesn't make any difference because the government gets all the money in the end; but, on the other hand, the workers in the suburban districts sometimes find it difficult to secure their full quota of subscriptions, and everything possible should be done to encourage them."

THE BADGE OF HONOR.

The Badge of Honor Worn by All Buyers of Third Liberty Loan Bonds

The accompanying illustration shows the design of the badge of honor which has been prepared for buyers of Third Liberty Loan Bonds. These badges of honor will be distributed by the millions to loyal Americans who subscribe for the new bonds. In previous campaigns the badges of honor were very highly prized, and many people are still wearing their First and Second Liberty Loan badges.

warfare. It is the belief that the new craft bears a resemblance to a sea fighter designed by a young naval officer and described as being of 20,000 tons, with a flat protective deck and two towers, one forward and one aft. This vessel carries no guns, but has eight or ten torpedo tubes on each side.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

THERE'S A JOKER IN THE CONTRACT

Many Delaware County Farmers
Get Caught in Real Estate Scheme
—Withdrawal Fee Clause in D. B.
Cornell Company's Contract.

In 1913 and 1914 J. J. Looker traveled through Delaware and adjoining counties listing farm property for sale in behalf of D. B. Cornell Company. He charged and collected twenty dollars for listing and advertising the property. He got the farmers to sign a contract agreeing to pay a five per cent commission on the selling price in case of a sale. The selling price was generally fixed by Looker at from one to five thousand dollars above the value placed on the property by the owner. So far as we can find out no one has ever made a sale through D. B. Cornell Co. But there is a joker in the contract which has netted Cornell quite a nest of money. Although Looker either told or gave the owner to understand that there would be no further sum for him to pay unless D. B. Cornell Co. sold his farm for the amount stated in the contract, the contract contains the following clause: "Should I withdraw the said property from your hands before you have procured a purchaser, I will, in consideration of your having listed the same, pay you forthwith two per cent of the list price above mentioned, which shall in no case be less than $25.00 to be known as the withdrawal fee."

During the last year D. B. Cornell has been sending inquiries to those who were foolish enough to sign his contracts, asking them if they had sold their farms; if they wished him to continue to advertise their property or if they desired to withdraw the same. A great many have fallen into the trap, for not having heard anything from D. B. Cornell or his company for several years and never even had an inquiry from a prospective purchaser of his, they figured that Cornell had stung them for twenty dollars and the best thing for them to do was to withdraw, and especially where they had in the meantime sold their property themselves or through another agency. So they wrote Cornell that they had either sold their property or withdrew it. By return mail they received a letter from D. B. Cornell demanding the withdrawal fee of two per cent of the selling price which is Mr. Looker had purposely fixed at an unreasonably large sum. Naturally the farmer refused to pay. Cornell thereupon threatens suit in New York city, claiming to live there, and gives the owner the following free advice: "I have been informed that some lawyers tell their clients something to this effect: 'If he sues you, you can get a change of venue, by securing two or three affidavits, and consequently said lawyer gets a trip to New York city at considerable expense to his client, and only to find that he cannot secure a change. This useless move costs around $50, and you haven't even started.' New York is my resident city. Seven of our managers that have bearing on these cases live in or near that city. Mr. Looker lives close to New York and among other New York witnesses are the several newspaper firms with whom we advertise. Do as your lawyer says, if you do desire to remember the above mentioned items and note the outcome, your lawyer can only presume, we know." Cornell has sued several farmers in New York city and their attorneys have procured an affidavit from an official in Massachusetts which shows conclusively to our mind that he lives and actually has his residence in Massachusetts. Cornell then floods the mail with letters and circulars containing recitals of how many cases he has won, and how much it costs to fight his scheme and also that two prominent lawyers of Delaware county have passed on his contract and declare it legal and binding and urging the farmer to settle. Several, after seeing the trap he has led them into, have asked him to continue to list and advertise their property but Cornell does not do business that way, and refuses absolutely so to do, showing that he is only after some more money without giving anything in return therefor. The best way to do is to not answer his letters at all so that he cannot claim a withdrawal fee. He has sued several and they have in the end settled with him for from $25 to $50. We have never known of a case coming to trial, but we confidently predict that if Cornell ever went to trial before a Delaware county jury he would get justice, but he never will stand trial in this county. He has stung to many—Stamford Mirror-Recorder.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, April 11.—Miss Hattie and Mary Paulding of Kingston were recent visitors at the home of their sister, Mrs. William McLain.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Mott were over Sunday guests of Mr. Mott's brother, James, at Newburgh. They remained until Monday, thus having the opportunity of attending all the Sunday sessions of conference, which they greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. J. J. Lyons with her two children, Gladys and Harold, returned Monday last. Mrs. Lyons attended conference nearly every day during her absence, going by trolley from Walden. The citizens of that enterprising village chartered a car for "conference week" and each morning and evening the car was summoned by telephone, making a through trip without any delay.

The Easter vacation being over the village school was reopened on Monday morning last.

The regular services will be resumed at the Methodist Church next Sunday, April 14. The Rev. J. J. Lyons has been returned for another conference every and was to him, and it would be very pleasing to him, and also to the official board, if all who possibly can would be present at both morning and evening services. Perhaps being present the first Sabbath of the year would create a desire to do the same thing every Sunday for the entire year. Try it and see.

The last load of household goods for Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Ganoung were brought to Esopus in a motor truck by Mr. Westlake of Middle Hope on Saturday last. Mr. and Mrs. Ganoung spent Sunday in Poughkeepsie with their son, Frederic, returning to Esopus on Monday. Their old friends and neighbors are delighted to have them back again and expect their stay to be permanent this time.

Marshall Hasbrouck attended conference at Newburgh on Sunday.

Herbert Cole drove Mrs. Alexander Smith's car to Newburgh on Friday and Sunday, taking Mrs. Smith, her daughter, Amy, her mother, Mrs. Amy Shesley, and Jennie Smith to the conference. They greatly enjoyed both trips and while there met several of the former pastors of the Esopus Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Mott and twin daughters, Gladys and Florence, visited Mrs. Mott's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George House, of Union Center last Sunday.

Mrs. Calvin Cole, Miss Helen Cole, Mrs. Peter Scheide, Clarence Cole and Philip O'Reilly motored to Newburgh on Sunday to visit Frank Cole at St. Luke's Hospital. Mr. Cole, who is a brother of Calvin Cole of this village and also of Clarence Cole of Glenox Mills had his arm terribly mangled in some machinery last February and has been in the hospital ever since. His physicians are putting forth very effort possible to save the arm—and think they will succeed—but the patient is extremely weak from shock and suffering, consequently his friends and relatives are quite anxious concerning him.

Little Walden Lund returned to his home in New York city on Sunday afternoon. His uncle, Calvin Cole, accompanied him to the train and his mother met him at Weehawken. He is getting to be quite a traveler.

Clarence Cole of Glenox Mills was an over Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cole.

The Rev. J. J. Lyons returned from conference on Tuesday. His congregation and friends are glad to welcome him and wish him a prosperous and pleasant year.

Dr. John A. Decker of Port Jervis has been suffering from asthma and bronchial trouble during the past few days and at the present time her condition is much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. James Riggs and son, Kenneth, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Wells.

Katherine Moran of Kingston, was the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Moran, the past week-end.

Relic of Verdun Battlefield.

The fuse of a German shell picked up at Verdun is on exhibition in the display window of Warren's sporting goods store on Fair street and is attracting much attention. The sign telling of the relic says: The fuse of a German shell picked up on the Verdun battlefield at Fort Louville by Colonel Eltinge, where an entire battery of men, horses and cannon were destroyed by German guns. Sent by Colonel Eltinge to his mother, Mrs. Lamont Eltinge.

VICTORY MENUS.

These menus, planned to conserve time, labor and money, to save the foods that are scarce and use those of which there is an abundance, are Victory Menus in more senses than one. They are prepared by the Department of Home Economics of the State College of Agriculture and endorsed by the New York State Food Commission.

Saturday.

Breakfast—Cornmeal mush with raisins and top milk, *toasted buckwheat bread, coffee.

Lunch or Supper—Cream of Lima bean soup, *vegetable salad, buckwheat bread, apple butter.

Dinner—Poached eggs in spinach nests, mashed potatoes, *fruit soufflé. Milk for the children to drink at each meal.

*May be omitted and still leave a balanced meal.

Many of the wild herbs make delicious salads or are very good when used in combination with other greens, or in soups and sauces. Some of the pot herbs and salad plants which grow wild in New York state are:

Watercress, in the streams, all year; salads.

Winter cress or yellow rocket, fields, meadows and roadsides as soon as the snow melts.

Garlic, field or wild onion, fields and meadows as soon as the snow melts. Chopped for salad, used in creamed potatoes or scrambled eggs or cooked with a small quantity of water and a pinch of soda, the field onion is excellent.

Fruit Soufflé.

Canned fruit or dried fruit that has been stewed may be used. Drain off the juice and place the pieces of fruit closely together in the bottom of a buttered baking dish. Pour over this the following soufflé mixture:

Melt 3 tablespoons of butter, add 3 tablespoons of cornstarch, and gradually 1 cup of hot milk. Bring to the boiling point and pour on to the yolks of 4 eggs beaten until very thick and mixed with 1/2 cup of maple sugar and 1/4 teaspoon of salt. Cool, cut and fold in the 4 egg whites beaten stiff. Turn into a buttered pudding dish and bake from 30 to 35 minutes in a slow oven. Serve at once with creamy sauce or thin custard.

Recipes for any of the dishes in these menus which cannot be found in cook books may be had by writing to the Department of Home Economics, State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

THE VLY.

The Vly, April 11.—Sunday school at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. All come out and have a large Sunday school.

Miss Anna Trowbridge expects to leave this place this Saturday to fill a position at Ilion. She is going to accompany her sister-in-law home.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazzie Trowbridge spent Sunday with their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Depuy. After dinner they took a ride around the water works in Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge's car, which was enjoyed greatly by all.

Jack Christiana has employment at Luther Trowbridge's at present.

There was quite a fire visited the woods owned by Bertha Delamater and John Hasbrouck, which kept the men pretty busy Sunday night till about 12 o'clock. They finished putting it out on Monday morning.

Mrs. Luther Trowbridge called on her sister-in-law one day last week, Mrs. L. Palen of Tongore.

Walter Koman of Brooklyn was up for a few days the past week saying goodbye to his many friends as on Friday he expects to go to training camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Scott and Mrs. R. Plinkham of Poughkeepsie and Brooklyn, were the guests of their father and family over Sunday.

"WAR CHEST" ARGUMENTS.

Mayor Canfield Gives Them to the Rotary Club.

Mayor Canfield discussed the question of a War Chest Fund at the Rotary luncheon on Wednesday as follows:

I am not a booster of a War Chest Fund to cover our city's or county's quota of all war funds, unless it boasts itself. If it possesses features and possibilities more advantageous than our present plan of many campaigns, then I am favorable to it. The fact that this plan has been adopted in many cities throughout this state and the United States, including such cities as Philadelphia, is sufficient to impress us with the necessity of studying it and seriously considering it as a possible solution for our community war fund problem.

I can see more to gain from such a plan than to lose. These days are exacting with most active men. Many demands and claims are made upon their time. These men are the workers in most of their campaigns. Some of them were called upon last year to give about five weeks of their time to these campaigns. One who is not pulling an oar and leading an active hand in these campaigns can easily and gracefully sit at his desk and criticize any effort to unite the campaigns. The men and women who have worn the harness of service are the persons who can best throw the real light of experienced judgment on the question. I am one of those who are willing to continue to wear the harness five weeks instead of one week, if it is deemed advisable.

We are born for co-operation, like the feet, the hands, the eyelids, and the upper and lower jaws, said some keen thinker of the ancient past. As we all know, to be effective both feet and both hands must be attached to the same body, and both eyelids to the same eyes, and both jaws to the same face.

Our own government sets us an example. It raised and spent over $3,000,000,000 for the war department last year, and over $1,000,000,000 for the naval department, and over $1,000,000,000 for aircraft and the shipping board, and various other sums for other departments connected with the war. All of these items were included in one budget. It all came from the same treasury, and was collected and handled together. Our government did not appeal to the people for three billions of dollars for the war department, and then afterwards one billion more for the naval department. It told the people that it wanted and must have a certain amount to cover all its estimated war expenditures.

The volunteer system of obtaining needed men has been found to be inadequate in a crisis such as this. In April, 1917, we had about 200,000 officers and men in the army. In April, 1918, we had about 1,700,000 officers and men. The great increase was due almost entirely to conscription which has proved to be the most equitable and only effective plan.

The war chest plan approaches more easily to conscription of funds than the present plan. In practically every city where the plan has been adopted the workers in factories and industrial plants and other wage-earners have very willingly given to the fund the returns of one-half an hour of labor each day, or about one per cent of their weekly wage, which is collected by the employers. The employers and others have given very freely and to their utmost, realizing that only the one demand would be made upon them. The givers to such a fund do not figure what they can give at the moment asked, but what they can give during the year. I am informed that in every city the amount raised as a war chest fund has been sufficient to meet all quotas given it during the year. If the giver desires his contribution to go to one special fund, such as the Red Cross, it can easily be so arranged.

Last year our campaigns cost us at least $2,500 in expenses, and at least $15,000 in the time given. The same ground was trod upon half a dozen times and the same people were solicited as many times. We must continue to have our Liberty Loans and Red Cross membership drives. Would it be worth while to eliminate the duplication of work and time and expense, and disrupt business as little as possible, and have a war fund budget, and distribute its burden more evenly?

Shall we have six or more small pyramids of war funds, or one large one? Shall we have six or more small rivulets, flowing in their own separate courses or one good sized stream of patriotic funds down which all of us will unitedly sail? Shall we have from six to ten small fund-battles or one real, conquering fund-battle? Is it not possible that more enthusiasm may be engendered, and more patriotism instilled, more joy of success and "over the top" victory had, as the result of the people of this community purposing together, willing together and winning together? Think it over.

Daniel Boone's "Relegan."

Instinctively like answers the call of like, and perhaps the reason so many of us venerate the men of Daniel Boone, great pioneer, explorer, hunter and survivor, is that we have a similar gift for spelling. The Columbia Missourian reprints the following letter, written by Boone shortly before his death: "All the relegan I have is to Love and fear God believe in Jesus Christ do all the good to my neighbor and my self that I can and do as little harm as I can help and trust on gods mercy for the rest."—Kansas City Times.

Rifling the Pilgrims.
 In times of peace devout Moslems arrived in Palestine from all parts of the world to perform the Hajj—pilgrimage—make their supplications to Allah in the Holy Sanctuaries of Mecca, kiss the Kaaba, and take part in other religious ceremonies. On arriving at the principal port, Jeddah, they were met post haste by hosts of purveyors, guides—practiced scoundrels—and others, all keen on lightening the pockets of the pilgrims under all manner of pretences. The Turkish government used to keep all the pilgrims in Mecca for a fortnight at least after the Hajj, so that they might spend all their money there and go back penniless to their countries.

All of Practical Value.
 The government fisheries bureau says that the skin of the codfish furnishes an excellent leather, tough as parchment and very durable. The same is true of salmon skin, which the Indians along the Yukon river, in Alaska, have long utilized for clothing. Eskimos are employed in Europe for making boots, and in Egypt shoe soles are made from the skins of certain fishes caught in the Red sea. Scorpion skin affords a handsome ornamental leather, and the hide of the armored leather is much valued in Europe, being covered with bony plates that can be polished to an ivorylike finish.

WOMAN'S VICTORY

By KITTY PARSONS.

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"If you love me, you wouldn't want to go to war! I don't see it at all. You're married, and even if I'm not dependent on you, I don't want you to go—you'll be drafted if they need you badly enough. I can't understand the way you feel at all—you just can't care about me, that's all! The words came in a rush and the girl who had spoken was trembling with excitement and on the verge of tears.

"You're right, dear, you don't understand," agreed her husband. "You know perfectly well that I do care about you, but there's a special call for men in my line of work just now, and I feel more like a slacker every day I stay away. Can't you see how I feel Dorothy?"

"No, I can't just see it, but if you want to go you needn't stay on my account. I thought a man's wife usually came first, but I guess I'm wrong. By all means, go, if you want to leave me!"

"You're talking nonsense, Dorothy! And of course you know if you put up that sort of an argument, I won't go—at least, not until I'm needed more than I am now. I wish you did not feel as you do," he went on, with an attempt at cheerfulness, "but it can't be helped, I suppose. I'm off for town now—it's late, too. Good-by."

Dorothy caught her breath in a sob as she watched him disappear down the path. It was the first time in two years that they had been married that Tom had gone off without kissing her good-by.

It was with a sense of defeat rather than victory that Dorothy went about her household duties that morning. Just as she was starting for the bridge club that afternoon, the door bell rang and Polly Anderson breezed in. Polly was the newest bride in their set.

"Oh, Dot," she cried, "I'm so thrilled I can hardly speak! Bob's got a commission as first lieutenant and I'm so proud of him I don't know what to do! Isn't it wonderful?"

Dorothy forgot all about the bridge club and sat down.

"But he'll be sent away, won't he?" she queried vaguely.

"Of course, stupid! You didn't suppose he'd stay here, did you? No, indeed! He's going South a week from today for a while and I suppose he will be sent abroad from there—ever so many of them are."

"How terrible! I'm so very sorry for you, dear!"

"Well, you needn't be! I'm so full of pride over Bob and love for my country thrown in, that there simply isn't room for any other feeling. Don't waste any sympathy on me!"

"But, Polly, you don't want him to go—you sound as if you really did."

Polly held her proud little head higher than ever and winked back at Dorothy.

"If a woman really loves her husband," she began steadily, "she does not actually want to get rid of him. But when his country calls and he hears the call himself, she knows he must go. If he were deaf to that call and she is a true American woman, she could never feel really proud of him again. You understand how it is, Dorothy—you must feel the same, yourself about Tom. Every true woman does."

Dorothy sat very still, but when Polly rose to go, she kissed her with a new respect in her manner. She had quite forgotten the bridge club.

When Tom came home a trifle earlier than usual, he found his wife seated before a fire in the living room, busily winding yarn.

"Why, Dot, what are you doing?" "Starting a sweater for you to take away with you," she returned promptly.

Then, at his look of amazement, she ran to him, and seizing the lapels of his coat, almost fiercely, looked up into his face appealingly.

"I've been all wrong, Tom," she told him. "I didn't understand how it was. Of course you've got to go—I didn't realize how men felt about this thing—or women, either, for that matter! But now I see it all, just as plain as day, and I want you to go as soon as you're ready—I'll help you every bit I can, too!"

Tom stared at her for a moment. Then he caught her in his arms and held her so close that she could scarcely breathe.

"I can't leave you, darling—I simply can't," he whispered, and waited for the expected acquiescence. But Dorothy pushed him away and looked straight into his eyes again.

"Yes, you can, dear," she said with a new firmness. "I wouldn't have you stay for anything in the world now, and I never loved you half so much as I do at this minute. It's the only thing to do and if other women can give their men up, I guess I can, too. I'm proud that you want to go—it would break my heart to have you feel a slacker, now that I understand. I was one myself this morning, but I'm not any more."

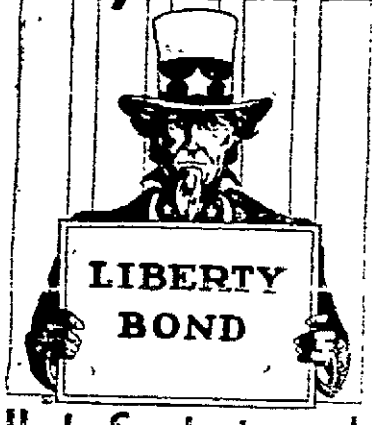

After a few minutes' intermission, she added: "I never was so unhappy in my life. This morning I wanted you here. Now I love you too much to keep you from going. Aren't women queer?"

"No, they're wonderful," he returned promptly. "But you are the most wonderful one of all!"

And she didn't even deny it.

VANWAGENEN'S

"Fittest" Under the Arctic Circle.

We think of Greenland as a frozen and desolate land, fit only for the abode of the hardy Eskimos. And yet in Finland, in a severe northern climate, has grown up a hardy and virile race. Perhaps it was because only the sturdiest could survive under such conditions, for isolation bred self-reliance and industry was necessary to existence. At any rate the fact remains that the Finns have developed a civilization that is unique and of interest. It is not surprising, to one familiar with the Finns and their history, to know that a republic has been proclaimed. No people are more truly democratic. Under the austerate rule of the czars Finland maintained her democratic institutions, and it was the only part of Russia where the traveler was free to move about without having a demand made almost daily for his passport. The Russian calendar which is 13 days behind our own was ignored and in every way the public and social customs differed from those of the Russians.—Nevin O. Winter, in the Christian Herald.

"Yes"—a Forgotten Word.

Years ago it was quite a common thing to hear the word "yes" used in general conversation. With the passage of time, however, that excellent and refined vocable has become as thoroughly extinct as the Dodo bird and the three-toed sloth. Today, alas! the nearest in sound to the original affirmative are "yah," "yep," or "yip." Other current synonyms are "uh-huh" and in New England, an aggravating neutral hum of sounds something like "mum." This distressing aversion to the use of "yes" has given rise, in the inventive American mind, to a number of phrases which mean the same thing, but which will not permit one to accuse the speaker of having uttered the short word. Such are the elegant "You said it," "Ain't it the truth?" "You said a awful," and many others too numerous to mention.—Life.

Unpleasant Type of Man.

The meanest type of other self is the one that saves all the dregs for the home folks. This bland actor outdoes himself all day in efforts to please and turns his all other self loose in the evening on those to whom he owes most. He's a mean character. He caters to men and dollars. He racks all the little unpleasantnesses under his coat during the day to deal them out with interest to the family after supper. At heart he's just a small, cowardly fellow of what a man ought to be. Instead of fighting his battles where the foe is he unrolls the roll of his collar among his friends and usually succeeds in making them all miserable. And this, too, in view of the fact that it does nothing to better his prospects for avoiding the unpleasantnesses of tomorrow.—Exchange.

Royal Needlewomen.

Most of the European queens noted in history's pages were expert needlewomen. Mary Queen of Scots is said to have been particularly clever with the needle. Hardwick hall being adorned with many of her tapestries. Applique was popular in the middle ages, not only on gowns, but on wearing apparel. A peculiar court custom sprang up in the reign of Charles I. that known as "dazzling" according to an old text. This term was applied to the ruffling out of the gold threads of wonderful Chinese embroidery to obtain the best for their gowns. One noblewoman wrote that "all the ladies who do not play cards pick gold. It is the most general fashion I ever saw, and they all carry bags containing the necessary tools."—Exchange.

SPENCER'S GRADUATES.

Successful in Passing U. S. Civil Service Examination.

Miss Minnie Planthaber, 49 Linden avenue, and Miss Evelyn Lawrence, 9 Green street, graduates of Spencer's Business School, have received telegraphic information from Washington that they have passed successfully at the examination. Miss Planthaber will report for duty on April 16, and Miss Lawrence on May first.

On Friday, April 19, another examination for stenographers and typists will be held at the court house, and it is expected that a large number of Spencer's recent graduates will avail themselves of the opportunities offered, because the government is in urgent need of their services. The superior training given at Spencer's is a positive guarantee that pupils will be properly equipped to register for the examination.

Already several successful Civil Service appointees, graduates of Spencer's, are in Washington and they speak in high terms of their positions and salaries.

TILLSON.

Tillson, April 11.—There will be preparatory services held in the Tillson Reformed Church Saturday evening, April 13, also communion services Sunday morning at eleven. Sunday school immediately following. The Rev. Theodore Beekman will officiate at both. Every one come out.

Don't forget, young ladies of the church, the meeting of the Missionary Society at the home of the president, Miss Vida E. Craig, Friday evening, April 12. This is our first meeting. Everyone attending will be a charter member. All the young ladies and girls of the church are urged to join this society.

The necktie social held in the church hall Saturday evening, April 6, was well attended and every one seemed to enjoy themselves. A neat little sum was realized for the church. One thing the ladies are sorry about is that a quart of ice cream, bought and left in the freezer in the hall, was gone Sunday morning. We are sorry that there are people in the neighborhood, base enough to do a thing of this sort. This is not the first time this has happened either, and the next time it happens more stringent measures will be adopted to discover and expose the thief.

THE MYSTERY OF CAMP WADSWORTH

Whether it be the product of a camera equipped with a trick lens, or just merely one of the many vagaries of a cheap camera in the hands of an amateur, or whether Major Frank L. Meagher is in training for a position as fat man in a side show after the war, or has mumps and toothache, or is holding half an apple in each side of his mouth, are questions and theories that are suggested by the photograph reproduced above from a small snapshot sent by Major Meagher to a friend in this city. According to the Major, he looks like this because army life agrees with him, as he has written a few words to that effect on the back of the photograph. Until this statement is verified Major Meagher's latest photograph will continue to be the greatest mystery of the war to his Kingston friends.

PROHIBITION NOT NECESSARY AS A WAR MEASURE

Under Federal Law, now in force, should the President at any time decide it was necessary or advisable to stop the use of barley or any other product for the making of malt beverages, in order to conserve our food supplies, he could immediately prohibit the manufacture of beer or any other commodity in which such grains or products are used.

Do not be misled into voting for a "DRY" Kingston by the argument that it is your patriotic duty to prevent barley being used for the manufacture of beer. The President will attend to that whenever it shall become necessary.

IT IS YOUR PATRIOTIC DUTY, however, in these times of stress and danger, to do everything on earth you can to keep the wheels of manufacture, commerce and industry turning at full speed.

INFLECTING PROHIBITION ON KINGSTON AT THIS TIME WILL DEVELOP ADDITIONAL CONFUSION AND CREATE A SPIRIT OF UNREST, DISTRUST AND DISCONTENT AMONG OUR PEOPLE.

OVER HALF OUR QUOTA
FOR THE LIBERTY LOAN
HAS BEEN SUBSCRIBED

The local Liberty Loan committee announced late this afternoon that Kingston's quota in the third Liberty Loan amounts to $1,108,000 and to date subscriptions amounting to $550,100 have been received. Subscriptions are coming in and it is expected that Kingston will again go over the top.

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

By the exertion of terrific pressure all along the battle front on the Franco-Belgian frontier, during the night, the Germans gained more ground, captured the village of Merville and advanced their lines at some points about two miles.

Merville lies on the Lys river and is about seven and one-half miles from Hazebrouck, towards which point the Germans seem now to be driving from the southeast. Hazebrouck is an important railway center, seven lines running out of the place.

Fighting of great ferocity, in which huge numbers of men and guns were employed, has continued for a distance of twenty miles from La Bassée Canal sector to the Ypres Comines Canal.

The Germans concentrated their efforts in the zone immediately southwest of Armentières, which the British evacuated on Wednesday afternoon and in the Ploegsteert-Messines-Wytschaete sector in Belgium. In the Ploegsteert district the Germans delivered a number of powerful thrusts, compelling the British to fall back upon Neuve Eglise. Neuve Eglise is about a mile and three-quarters northeast of Ploegsteert.

The Germans attacked repeatedly along this front and received numerous bloody checks. North of Festubert the British delivered a strong counter blow which sent the Germans reeling from a position they had previously taken.

Festubert is near the southern end of the battle zone. It lies between 3 and 4 miles northeast of Bethune and the same distance northwest of La Bassée on the canal of the same name.

The only activity reported by the British war office today from the Picardy theatre of operations was the shelling of British positions on both sides of the Somme by German artillery. That section lies immediately east of the British base at Amiens.

The French front, especially that part along the southern flank of the Amiens salient, has continued to be the scene of violent artillery duels.

tionally well presented to the large and appreciative audience that filled the hall to its capacity.

The end men, to whom much credit must be given, held the close attention of their audience throughout the entire program with their witty and sensational jokes, which caused many to almost hold their breath.

The solo work by the several members of the club was the feature of the evening, being thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, who exhibited their appreciation by giving each soloist a rousing encore, to which each responded.

The song entitled, "Here Comes America," sung by Ralph Deyo, and in which the entire circle participated, including Fred Van Duzen, the interlocutor, who was dressed to represent Uncle Sam, all forming ranks and doing some excellent drill work, was well rendered and was an up to the minute production.

The circle members were dressed in colors, red, white and blue, and when the curtain arose for the start of the program it presented a glorious scene, to which the new scenery in the background great added.

After the minstrel show, Palen's orchestra rendered music for dancing. Refreshments were on sale during the evening.

The same program will be repeated this evening at 8 o'clock, and every one enjoying a good laugh should endeavor to attend.

Too much credit cannot be given Mr. Richards for his work in connection with this minstrel.

In the German language there is a saying, "Ein gutes wort findet einen guten ort." A good word finds a good place, and I am sure not in vain. It has found a good place in our hearts and in our minds.

We know that we are in duty bound to give our country at the present time and at all times our most earnest support, not so much in words, but in deeds, and thereby affirm and approve our loyalty.

Mr. Mayor, I have the pleasure to inform you that our church council has decided to purchase a $100 Liberty Bond for the congregation, that our Sick and Aid Society will do the same, and that I am ready to take another bond, and to take the names of those who are moved to do the same.

At the close of Pastor Schmidt-konz's reply the orchestra played "America Forever" and the male chorus of the Rondout Social Man-nerchor sang "Robin Adair" and another selection. The chorus was in the voice and the efforts were greeted with applause.

The tiny tots again came forward and sang an action song entitled "Clap, Clap, Clap" which was followed by "The Pedlars" by J. Bear and G. Ewel.

The Misses Helen and Angela Cashin then rendered another dance and the day school sang a selection which was followed by a side splitting sketch, "When Women Have Their Rights," played by Mr. and Mrs. Herman LaTour and Carl Will. The sketch kept the audience in a roar until the drop of the curtain.

What Would You Do ? If you suddenly had 3,000 times as much work to do as usual. That is what our government has had put up to it since we entered this war. And it is getting away with it, too. We must not expect every single thing to run smoothly—readjustments take time. Let's every one of us put our shoulder to the wheel in good American fashion, and PULL TOGETHER.

THE BADGE OF HONOR.

★ EDITORIAL. ★

NO TRENCHES ON U. S. SOIL.

Has it ever occurred to you what might happen were the Flanders front defenses to crack beneath the pressure of the German drive? What would become of France and of the allied forces there now? What would be the fate of our army? And where might the front line trenches ultimately be?

If the Germans break through they are almost certain to risk everything in a naval war upon a last clash with England's fleet. And should they by any chance be victorious the next move would be against America direct.

We want no invading German hordes upon American soil. We want this war to be fought out in Europe. So America must do its utmost both in men and money. It is up to us states-at-homes to furnish the money—to buy Liberty Bonds.

New Type of "Destroyer."
The recent report that the United States is building a new type of flush-deck destroyer, having a very high speed and a minimum of humping surface, has aroused much speculation among interested laymen as to the details of these boats, which, it has been predicted, will revolutionize the warfare. It is the belief that the new craft bears a resemblance to a sea fighter designed by a young naval officer and described as being of 20,000 tons, with a flat protective deck and two towers, one forward and one aft. This vessel carries no guns, but has eight or ten torpedo tubes on each side.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The accompanying illustration shows the design of the badge of honor which has been prepared for buyers of Third Liberty Loan Bonds. These badges of honor will be distributed to the millions of loyal Americans who subscribe for the new bonds. In previous campaigns the badges of honor were very highly prized, and many people are still wearing their First and Second Liberty Loan badges.

The police department have been asked to search for John Zyla, 46 years old, of No. 21 East Pierpont street, who left his home late Tuesday afternoon. The last seen of him was in a Mill street saloon at 10 o'clock that night. Zyla's hat was found on Ann street, but no trace of him has been obtained. He worked for the Knickerbocker Ice Company and when last seen wore grey pants and a red sweater. He wore a dark black mustache, and was 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighed about 170 pounds. It is thought that while under the influence of liquor he may have walked along the dock and fell into the Rondout creek and was drowned.

TRUSTEES ELECTED.

Annual Meeting of Rondout Presbyterian Church.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Rondout Presbyterian Church was held in the chapel Thursday evening at which time Frank D. Dewey, Louis Beeres and Henry C. Connelly were elected trustees to succeed George W. Canfield, Dr. A. M. Cragin and William I. Hutton, whose terms of office had expired. The reports of the various societies and organizations of the church were read and showed that the church was in a flourishing condition.

Who Knows Abe Burhans?

The police department today received a telegram from Ely, Nevada, reading, "Notify any of Burhans family of death of Abe Burhans here."

Malone Trial Finished.

The Malone case was finished at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon and went to the jury.

"Pennsylvania Dutch."

Germans emigrated to Pennsylvania between 1683 and the middle of the eighteenth century and settled principally in the southeastern counties of the state. The settlers came principally from the Rhenish palatinate, Wurtemberg and Switzerland, with a sprinkling from the Lower Rhine, Bavaria, Alsace and Saxony. The settlers spoke a variety of dialects and owing to their segregation in religious communities, clung tenaciously to their mother tongue, but were gradually forced by circumstances to accept many English words. Now their language can be best described as a fusion of such dialects as were originally spoken by these people with an admixture of idiomatic English. These people consequently became known as "Pennsylvania Dutch."

Peculiar Votive Offerings.

In Mexico and some other Latin-American countries the ancient practice of depositing votive offerings in places of worship still survives in a very curious form. Silver images of the whole or parts of the body, representing by form or attitude painful or diseased organs, are hung in the churches, either to express thanks for restoration to health or else to supplement appeals for divine aid in the accomplishment of a hoped-for cure. These talismans or magic images (for such in effect they are) may represent a leg, a kidney or a hand; or, in the case of complete figures, the right hand, applied to the head, the stomach or other portion of the body indicates the seat of the malady.

POSSESSION OF WINE For Religious and Sacramental Purposes Not Prohibited By Local Option Law

One of the great scares being circulated by the Liquor Interests to influence the great Catholic vote in our city against No-License is that if the city votes Dry the possession of wine for sacramental purposes will be illegal. THIS IS ABSOLUTELY FALSE. They know as little about the law as they care about it.

Chapter 814 of the Laws of 1917 passed at the extraordinary session of the legislature last August provides as follows:

The result of a vote upon a Local Option question or questions in any city or town or any provision of this chapter "shall not be deemed to prohibit, in any such town or city, the possession of wine for sacramental purposes, nor to prevent the delivery of such liquors in such town or city for such purposes or acceptance for such delivery."

Such propaganda is an insult and should be resented by the voters of all denominations. They are claiming that many of our big business enterprises will go out of business with the going out of the saloon. They are making all sorts of threats that hundreds of employees will be thrown out of work. They even go so far as to say that the government will go to pieces and the war will be lost if license is not retained. We challenge them to prove that all our business depends upon the "LIQUOR BUSINESS." When they claim that even our RELIGION depends on it, they exceed all bounds of decency. If the LIQUOR BUSINESS is doing so much for our Government, City and Homes, why not hasten to the nearest saloon, take the bar-tender by the hand or get hold of the BREWERY [What brewery does The Freeman mean,] congratulate them heartily on the splendid showing they have made in the past year; tell them we hope they will do better next year and give them our blessing for the great public service they have performed. The Freeman thinks that the booze will be brought in by "Bootleggers," a new name for the agents of THE BREWERY; the Leader thinks there is going to be a great exodus of our people to the few wet spots that will be left. Well, which of our newspapers is right. We would suggest that if they want to help The Brewery out, they get together. Vote "NO" on all four questions. Do not be fooled into voting against what YOU KNOW TO BE RIGHT by such silly arguments. THE BALLOT IS YOURS. You would sacrifice the last "Personal Liberty" you have if you listen to all the threats that are being made. Kingston expects every man and woman to do his and her duty.

Prehistoric Civilization.
People of the present age need not think they are the only bright fellows there ever were. There are prehistoric remains in different parts of the United States—particularly in the southwest—that attest a civilization of long ago, for they are far beyond anything that would have been possible to the Indians who inhabited the country when the first white settlers came. Among this testimony to the importance of former days are the remains of irrigation systems. One of the most famous of these is on the Arizona highlands, running from Prescott to the Grand Canyon. Water is taken from what is known as Montezuma's well, a curious natural well 440 feet in diameter and 93 feet deep, except in one spot, where no bottom has been reached at 500 feet.

Poor Kind of Joke.

A woman of uncertain age required the services of a page boy and inserted in the local paper an advertisement headed: "Youth wanted."

One of her friends, with little humor and less taste, sent her a bottle of a celebrated wrinkle remover, a pot of fairy bloom, a set of false teeth and a flaxen wig!

BOY SCOUTS BUSY WITH USEFUL WORK

Will Collect Local Newspapers for Soldiers in Camps—Other Lines of Activity Being Followed.

Were you ever away from home and wished for some news from the old town? A letter is good but you can not put all the local news under a three cent stamp. The boys in the camps are hungry for news, they rush for a newspaper from home as they do for the mess tent after a long hike. Just compare your anxiety for the arrival of the news boy who comes every day to your door with that of boys miles away who receive a paper from home perhaps once a week. Can't we arrange to send a bunch of papers every day to the different camps where our boys are stationed?

The Red Cross has asked the Boy Scouts to collect the local papers for this purpose. Each Scout is asked to visit his neighbors each day and collect the paper of the day before. Bring the papers to Scout headquarters and they will be forwarded to the camps.

Scout Tests.

There are so many demands made for the services of the Boy Scouts that it is an easy thing to forget Scouting and Scout advancement. How many tests have you passed lately? The executive has given only 8 tests since March 1. One troop in the city has taken only 9 tests since last July.

We must not forget the Scout program in the hustle of our war program. Scoutmasters should devote at least a part of each meeting to some phase of scouting and prepare their Scouts for tests.

Fire and Drum Corps.

The regular rehearsal of the new drum corps was held yesterday afternoon. The drums are coming along very good while the fifes are a close second. The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock when it is expected every member will be present as it is the intention of Mr. Bircher to have them practice together from now on. Boys, just think of the pleasure of marching behind your own music. This is your organization. Get behind it.

Don't Start Loan Work Until April 27

All Scout officials have been notified that the work of the Scouts in selling Liberty Loan Bonds will not start until April 27. The new date was fixed in accordance with the latest official information that the general campaign will close May 4th instead of April 30th. Every Scout should understand that there is to be no soliciting of bonds before the 27th. It is not the idea for the Scouts to interfere with the work of agencies already selling bonds. The duty of the Boy Scouts as stated by President Wilson is to act as gleaners after the reapers have secured the greater number of bonds. Scouts are expected to sell bonds to people whom the local committees overlook. Don't start any work or make plans for work until you have received the manual of instructions prepared by the government. When you get it be sure to read it from cover to cover.

Hikes.

Scoutmasters and patrol leaders should not fail to observe that it is contrary to the policy of Scouting for a troop or a patrol to go on a hike unless there is an adult leader present. Many accidents have happened as a result of the violation of this rule and we cannot afford to run chances. This rule has been violated at least once in this city but we trust that it was because the patrol leader and scoutmaster were unfamiliar with the ruling.

War Saving Stamps.

What is your troop record in the W. S. S. Campaign? At present the record stands as follows:
Troop No. 1, $250, sold by Scout Maccholdt.

Troop No. 5, $172.25.

Troop No. 6, $241.00.

What about Troop No. 4. We haven't received your report yet. Scoutmasters are requested to get a report in to headquarters at once.

Troop Items—Troop No. 1.

At the regular meeting of the troop held last Thursday arrangements were made for participating in the Liberty Loan parade and for the meeting at the armory at which ten members of Troop No. 1 received War Service Emblems.

Scout George Walters was remembered during his recent illness with a bouquet of flowers for which we received a card of thanks. All members of Troop No. 1 wish him a quick recovery.

There will be an important meeting this evening at 7:30 at the Y. M. C. A.

We are expected to have 100% participation in the Third Liberty Loan and all members are requested to attend the meeting tonight. The scout executive will be present and explain the merit system.

Troop No. 4.

At the meeting held last Monday evening the Wolf Patrol led in the Merit System. Two new members were brought in and signed on the troop records. A meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 in the church chapel. All scouts are urged to be present as important business will be brought up.

Troop No. 5.

The troop meeting was postponed this week. The Blazing Arrow Patrol leads in Merit Points. Ten members from Troop No. 5 received War Service Emblems at meeting held at the armory last Saturday. There will be a regular meeting of the troop next Tuesday.

At the last meeting of the troop the Beaver Patrol with Edmond Mahar as patrol leader had the most points. George Matthews had the greatest number of individual points. We are glad to welcome Edward Leverett, Jr., to our membership. There will be a meeting in the chapel tonight. Herbert Bircher will be present and give the troop something new in scouting. Mr. Bircher comes from Middletown where he was connected with the Boy Scout movement. Let us have 100% attendance.

HIGHEST TIDE IN YEARS IN CREEK

Thursday and today saw the highest tide in years in the Rondout creek, caused by the high east wind that blew. In many places along the creek the docks were flooded. The only time that the tide has been known to be higher was during a freshet in the creek. Rivermen stated that the tide today was fully two feet above normal.

Another barge has been launched at the shipyard of Rafferty & Foeny in Ponckhockie. This makes thirteen barges that have been built at the yard since it opened.

The Skillypot is still off the route undergoing repairs at Hillsbrent's shipyard. The stormy weather has caused a delay in making the repairs, as it put to stop to practically all work on the shipyards along the creek.

400-Year-Old Flat.

A writer in the Building Age describes in an interesting way a 400-year-old apartment house in a Chinese village about 300 miles from Hongkong. Built in a circle, it is five stories high, massively constructed of stone and brick, and can hold more than 1,000 persons. There is only one entrance, a very strong gate, capable of standing a long siege. Undoubtedly the house was built to withstand the pirates and robbers that terrorized Fokien province in the old days. The house has its numerous counterparts in the public villages of the Southwest of the United States. Peaceful Indian tribes, like the Hopis, sought refuge from marauding Apaches on lofty isolated rocks in the deserts and built their wonderful community houses on almost inaccessible summits like Acocoma. The houses, constructed of adobe brick, were arranged stepwise, the upper stories being gained by means of outside ladders. They are still inhabited, and contain hundreds of families.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

RALPH VAN DEMARK.

He was stationed aboard the battleship Arizona up to January of this year when he was transferred to the navy machine shops at Charleston, S. C., where he is now located.

A cablegram from France announces the safe arrival of Lawrence Davis of Kerhonkson.

Corporal James J. Sullivan on the casualty list, recently published in The Freeman is a member of the 165th Regiment and a resident of New York city.

Fire at Gardiner.

Monday, April 8, fire destroyed the residence of George Bowers at Gardiner. A defective chimney was the cause of the blaze. Neither the house or its contents were insured and are a total loss.

A versatile man is one who can talk at the right time and keep still when there is nothing to say.

DEFERRING OF DRAFTED FARMERS

The Ulster County Farm Bureau calls the attention of farmers to the following statement issued by the United States Employment Service of the Department of Labor. This is important and farmers who are affected should take action at once.

A new draft of about 90,000 men shortly will be called to the colors. The Provost Marshal General has ordered that men actively assiduously engaged in the planting and cultivation of a crop but who are listed in Class I of the draft and within the new quota should be deferred until the end of the new quota.

The local draft boards, being judicial bodies cannot defer the call of such men, however, unless the farmers are employing them support their claims for such deferred classification of vital importance that farmers immediately execute and file such affidavits with the local boards.

If farmers whose hands are affected in this new call fail to follow this advice, they should have no cause for complaint if their men are taken from them at this critical time. It will be useless and unreasonable to later protest if they have done nothing to retain their help. Immediate action on the part of every farmer whose employees are affected is essential and should not be delayed under any circumstances.

A Talk to Mothers About Croup and Cold Troubles

The New Treatment With Fresh Air and Anti-septic Vapors, that Makes Internal "Dosing," Flannel Jackets, etc., Unnecessary.

Local Druggists Are Offering It on 30 Days' Trial—No Cost If You Are Not Delighted with the Results.

All mothers are "home doctors" when it comes to treating the croup and cold troubles that children are heir to. They know that growing children need outdoor exercise and that, with outdoor exercise, some colds are bound to come. They know, too, that these colds should not be neglected, and yet, constant "dosing" disturbs the delicate stomachs of children.

The answer to this problem is the external "vapor" treatment, Vick's VapoRub, for all the many forms of cold troubles, from head colds, asthma or catarrh, down to sore throat, bronchitis or deep chest colds.

Just apply VapoRub well over the throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. Leave the covering loose around the neck so the vapors, released by the body heat, may be freely inhaled. The next morning the head is clear, phlegm loosened and soreness gone. One rub with VapoRub usually releases croup in 15 minutes and an application at bedtime prevents a night attack.

Colds are easiest to stop at the beginning. "Nip them in the bud" by keeping plenty of fresh air in the bedroom and applying VapoRub freely at the first sign of trouble. Your druggist will sell you a 25c jar with the privilege of a month's trial. 25c, 50c, $1.00.

He'd Better Say It. The latest kind of war soup with which we have had anything to do personally is made of one potato, one onion, one pinch of salt and a vast volume of water, but under such circumstances a man who tries to be pleasant and cheerful around the house can always say: Well, this is good and hot.

MORAN BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Business and Civil Service Positions Accepted by Graduates.

Equipped and specially trained for efficient business service, the following graduates and students of Moran Business School have taken their initial steps as stenographers and bookkeepers—foremen for successful careers:

Miss Frances Partlan, of the evening sessions, has accepted a very desirable position as stenographer and bookkeeper with Costello & Dugan, Wall street, this city.

William F. Abernathy, real estate and insurance broker of this city, has engaged Miss Jeannette Furman as stenographer and office assistant, through Moran Business Service Bureau.

Former Woodard, of the combined course, has been placed in a high grade position as stenographer and typist with the Standard Oil Company, this city.

Another excellent position recently filled by the Moran Business Service Bureau is that of clerk and stenographer with the Herbert Brush Mfg. Co., in which Miss Florence Kolts, of the evening sessions, is giving perfect satisfaction.

Having passed the United States Civil Service examination for clerk, with knowledge of stenography and typewriting, Miss Ruth Halverson, a graduate of the stenographic department, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where she will be appointed to an excellent position in the quarter-master department.

Joseph Hazen, now employed in the treasury department, Washington, spent a few days in town recently. He is meeting with very gratifying success in government service.

Charles F. Jenks, an experienced graduate of Moran School, has obtained a good position with the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation.

Calls for young men continue to come in faster than the school is able to supply them. Opportunities for girls are also very great, many additional avenues of employment now being open to them. The shortage of young men and fuller appreciation of the natural aptitude of girls for office positions are opening the doors of hundreds of additional institutions to young women. The important thing is to secure the proper training—the kind imparted at Moran Business School.

EXPERT SAYS HUMAN BLOOD WAS ON PANTS

Chemical Expert Did Not Find It On Malone's Coat, However—Defense Offered No Testimony—Summed Up Today.

The Malone murder case in county court was finished at 4:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon without the defense having offered any testimony. A variety of testimony was given during the afternoon and the case was expected to be summed up this morning, but when court convened at 10 o'clock recess was taken until 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in order that the addresses of counsel and the charge of the court to the jury might proceed without any interruption or recess.

Blood Damp And Sticky.

Coroner George Suiter, re-called, testified at the place where the body lay about 10 o'clock and removed the sheet. Joe was dressed in a blue coat and light blue overalls. The coat was damp around the back of the neck, and was stained there. The right pocket was turned inside out.

The blood on the stone was not liquid but was damp and sticky which also was true of the blood along the lane. From the shanty the trousers, insurance policy and book which he retained until directed by the surrogate to turn them over to Mr. Tut-hill, the undertaker.

Cross-examination: Did not talk with anyone regarding the case during the noon recess.

Tracing the Clothing.

William P. Glass, stenographer for the district attorney's office, testified that on the afternoon of September 27 he went to Newburgh with Sheriff Shults and Chief of Police Wood, and while in Newburgh visited the West Shore baggage room where Mr. Malby, the baggage agent, turned over a valise to Under Sheriff Scott. D. Hornbeck, who gave a receipt for it. Mr. Glass took the valise from Mr. Malby in Mr. Hornbeck's presence and it was brought to Kingston, where it has since been in the exhibit closet of the district attorney's office. It was opened for examination since when the contents have been undisturbed. Mr. Glass identified the valise and clothing.

Before the grand jury certain articles were removed from the pockets of the coat by Mr. Traver, marked by Mr. Traver and replaced. These articles were a military enrollment notice, a religious picture, receipt and business card. The valise also contained some shoe strings.

Other articles of clothing were delivered by Jailer Jocelyn to Mr. Glass, who turned them over to Dr. Butterfield at the Central Testing Laboratories at No. 145 North street, New York city, conducted by the city of New York, later receiving them from the doctor. Samples of clothing were sent to Dr. E. E. Butterfield, New York city, by registered mail about April first. A blue hat also was received from Jailer Jocelyn by Mr. Glass; a brown hat from Police-eman Adams; a brown hat from Coroner Suiter; all of which are in the same condition as when received.

A gun metal watch with flag job attached and other articles were received by Mr. Glass.

No Cross-Examination.

Pants Showed Human Blood. Dr. Elmore E. Butterfield testified he had been a pathological chemist for 14 years; having graduated from Washington Institute, connected with Ann Arbor University and the Rockefeller Institute, and with the Central Testing Laboratories. For five years he was engaged in examining the chemical properties of human blood. There was an accepted standard procedure, he said, known as the precipitate test, to determine the presence of human blood on any article. He applied the precipitate test to certain portions of the suit furnished to him by Mr. Glass; the samples of cloth which were cut out for testing purposes were labeled and kept under lock and key. Two samples—one from each trouser leg—gave a positive test, a precipitate, the re-agent in this case being rapid serum. According to all accepted views the samples showed the presence of human blood.

Corpse Blood Not Injected.

Cross-examination: The clothing was delivered in December; the test was finished March 31. Describing the precipitate test, Dr. Butterfield said he injected human blood in the body of four rabbits in one day. One rabbit died. The blood was obtained from a patient in the hospital by the interne.

Q—"Was it corpse blood?"

A—"No. I will state that as a fact."

Q—"How do you know?"

A—"There were no autopsies in the hospital that day."

Dr. Butterfield based this statement on the fact that the autopsy table was not in use when he was there that day.

Corpse-blood, he said, might cause death of a rabbit if injected.

The test was made on March 31 when the anti-human serum was withdrawn. The solid matter was tested by N. W. Roche for Hieman Crystals which identifies the blood pigment, but does not identify it as human blood. The clear liquid was tested for its ability to produce a cloud. The blood from only two rabbits was drawn from testing; one should precipitate several minutes sooner than the other. The elements of a good anti-serum are good precipitate within twenty minutes; the sooner, the better.

The anti-human serum was examined by the naked eye. One serum was clear; one was slightly opalescent.

He disagreed with the statement that "any opalescence may lead to the gravest error," because "opalescence" was the improper term which had come into inaccurate use; the term "opaque" should be used.

Q—"You want to take it on yourself to determine the meaning given to a word by a writer?"

A—"He may have used the improper terminology."

Q—"I am using the terminology of your profession."

A—"The terminology of my profession is a very broad and mysterious one."

Mr. Loughran demanded that the witness turn to the jury and repeat that statement.

The part of the sleeve which was tested was larger than the parts of the trousers.

Q—"You swear that the stains on the legs of the trousers were human blood?"

A—"Yes."

Q—"That ought to work both ways. If the stains on the trousers gave a precipitate showing evidence of blood and the stains on the coat sleeve gave no precipitate, then it would not be inaccurate to say that the stains were not human blood?"

A—"No."

The samples from the trousers used in testing were about the size of a twenty-five cent piece and about the size of a ten cent piece. The sample from the coat contained 3.7 square inches.

He said he had used Allen's Commercial Organic Analysis as a work of reference, but did not agree with the statement it contained that to differentiate the blood of man from that of animals is a practical impossibility unless the corpuscles can be measured. He disagreed with that statement most emphatically both in his experience and what he had read in medical journals.

Q—"That is to say, you disagree with what you have read in this book because you have read the contrary somewhere else?"

A—"In journals and monographs."

Among the monographs he had read was one by Uhlenhuth.

Q—"Do you test by the naked eye?"

A—"Yes."

Mr. Loughran read Uhlenhuth's method of testing by filtration.

"He may have used it sometimes," said the witness, "but that is a method for clearing and not testing."

Q—"Is your method any better?"

A—"Not any better."

Q—"Is it as good?"

A—"I would say it is equally as good."

He followed Uhlenhuth in some things and disagreed in others.

Mr. Loughran read from Allen's Analysis that "corpuscles cannot be regarded as conclusive," but Dr. Butterfield when asked if he agreed said "If he defines 'conclusive' I could answer."

Q—"In what sense do you use 'conclusive'?"

A—"In the sense of final."

Q—"Assuming that meaning, do you agree?"

A—"If the specific exception is noted, in which the reaction is given by other than human blood, I would agree, but not otherwise."

Dr. Butterfield said that so far as he knew, alcohol had no effect on blood corpuscles.

Q—"If anyone used a microscopic test after the clothes had been rumpled and exposed to the sunlight, would it amount to anything?"

A—"Not in my opinion."

Q—"A learned doctor here yesterday swore he made that test and oddly enough he came to the same conclusion as you do. In your opinion is his opinion good for anything?"

Dr. Butterfield objected that Dr. Butterfield could not characterize the testimony of another witness, even an expert, was sustained.

Expert Roelkey Agrees.

David E. Roelkey, of Brooklyn, chemist in the same laboratory studied in Berlin and Heidelberg, testified in regard to the tests of the samples that the Hieman test was first applied, and then the precipitate test, the latter showing that the samples taken from the trousers showed human blood.

Pants Above Shoe Tops.

Coroner Suiter, recalled, testified that on the morning when he first went to the Morano farm, the pants were pulled up about a foot above the shoe tops.

Tried to Get Joe to Sit Up.

Vincent Morano, recalled, testified that when he first saw Joe, he took hold and tried to get him to sit up. Nobody touched the body or clothing after that until Dr. Palmer came, and from the time the doctor left until the coroner arrived.

Cross-examination: Joe usually got up early and had the horses fed and stables cleaned by the time Morano got up. Sometimes he saw him and sometimes he didn't. On this morning he went to the barn, saw the horses had not been fed, looked over at the shack and called to Joe, then went up the hill without going over to the shack.

The various articles of clothing heretofore marked for identification were offered in evidence by District Attorney Traver on the question of motive and identity of the defendant as the person who committed the murder.

Mr. Loughran objected to the blue and green suit on various grounds. The clothing was received in evidence, said the witness, to show the same purposes as the clothing and to show the fruits of the homicide.

Jailer Seth Jocelyn, re-called, testified that on the day Malone left jail he wore a light brown hat, which he identified.

Mrs. Morano Present When Suit Was Bought.

Lucy Morano, wife of Vincent Morano, testified she lived in New York and sometimes was in Marlborough

Re-direct examination: When Chief Wood questioned him at headquarters and asked if he knew Joe Michael, Malone replied, "Yes, that's the man who called me a thief."

At 4:10 o'clock The People rested.

Mr. Loughran moved to strike out the testimony of Sheriff Shults and Chief Wood regarding the "getting even" statement of Malone. Denied.

Mr. Loughran moved that the jury be advised to acquit the defendant on the ground that "The People had failed, as a matter of law, to prove the corpus delicti, that as matter of law The People had failed to show the grade of the defendant's offense, if there was an offense; that if the testimony connected him with the

THERE'S A JOKER IN THE CONTRACT

Many Delaware County Farmers
Get Caught in Real Estate Scheme
—Withdrawal Fee Clause in D. B.
Cornell Company's Contract.

In 1913 and 1914 J. J. Looker traveled through Delaware and adjoining counties listing farm property for sale in behalf of D. B. Cornell Company. He charged and collected twenty dollars for listing and advertising the property. He got the farmers to sign a contract agreeing to pay a five per cent commission on the selling price in case of a sale. The selling price was generally fixed by Looker at from one to five thousand dollars above the value placed on the property by the owner. So far as we can find out no one has ever made a sale through D. B. Cornell Co. But there is a joker in the contract which has netted Cornell quite a neat sum of money. Although Looker either told or gave the owner to understand that there would be no further sum for him to pay, unless D. B. Cornell Co. sold his farm for the amount stated in the contract, the contract contains the following clause: "Should I withdraw the land and property from your hands before you have procured a purchaser, I will, in consideration of your having listed the same, pay you forthwith two per cent of the list price above mentioned, which shall in no case be less than $25.00 to be paid as the withdrawal fee."

During the last year D. B. Cornell has been sending inquiries to those who were foolish enough to sign his contracts, asking them if they had sold their farms, if they wished him to continue to advertise their property or if they desired to withdraw the same. A great many have fallen into the trap for not having heard anything from D. B. Cornell or his company for several years and never even had an inquiry from a prospective purchaser of his, they figured that Cornell had stung them for twenty dollars and the best thing for them to do was to withdraw, and especially where they had in the meantime sold their property themselves or through another agency. So they wrote Cornell that they had either sold their property or withdrew it. By return mail they received a letter from D. B. Cornell demanding the withdrawal fee of two per cent of the selling price which is Mr. Looker had purposely fixed at an unusually large sum. Naturally the farmer refused to pay. Cornell thereupon threatens suit in New York city, claiming to live there, and gives the owner the following free advice: "I have been informed that some lawyers tell their clients something to this effect: 'If he sues you, you can get a change of venue, by securing two or three affidavits, and consequently said lawyer gets a trip to New York city at considerable expense to his client, and only to find that he cannot secure a change. This useless move costs, around $75.00 to $100.00, even stated. New York is my resident city. Seven of our managers that have bearing on these cases live in or near that city. Mr. Looker lives close to New York and among other New York witnesses are the several newspaper firms with whom we advertise. Do as your lawyer says. If you so desire, but remember above mentioned items and note the outcome. Your lawyer can only presume, we know.' Cornell has sued several farmers in New York city and their attorneys have procured an affidavit from an official in Massachusetts which shows conclusively to our mind that he lives and actually has his residence in Massachusetts. Cornell then floods the mail with letters and circulars containing recitals of how many cases he has won, and how much it costs to fight his scheme and also that two prominent lawyers of Delaware county have passed on his contract and declare it legal and binding and urging the farmer to settle. Several after seeing the trap he has led them into have asked him to continue to list and advertise their property but Cornell does not do business that way, and refuses absolutely so to do, showing that he is only after some more money without giving anything in return therefor. The best way to do is to not answer his letters at all so that he cannot claim a withdrawal fee. He has sued several and they have in the end settled with him for from $25 to $50. We have never known of a case coming to trial, but we confidently predict that if Cornell ever went to trial before a Delaware county jury he would get justice, but he never will stand trial in this county. He has stung to date Stamford Mirror-Recorder.

CHILDREN NEED FOOD—NOT ALCOHOL

How careless it is to accept alcoholic medicine for children when everybody knows that their whole health and growth depends upon correct nourishment. If your children are pale, listless, underweight or puny, they absolutely need the special, concentrated food that only gives, to improve their nutrition and repair waste caused by youthful activity. During school term all children should be given Scott's Emulsion because it benefits their blood, sharpens their appetite and rebuilds their strength by sheer force of its great nourishing power.

"WAR CHEST" ARGUMENTS.

Mayor Canfield Gives Them to the Rotary Club.

Mayor Canfield discussed the question of a War Chest Fund at the Rotary luncheon on Wednesday as follows:

I am not a booster of a War Chest Fund to cover our city's or county's quota of all war funds, unless it boosts itself. If it possesses features and possibilities more advantageous than our present plan of many campaigns, then I am favorable to it. The fact that this plan has been adopted in many cities throughout this state and the United States, including such cities as Philadelphia, is sufficient to impress us with the necessity of studying it and seriously considering it as a possible solution for our community war fund problem.

I can see a motive to gain from such a plan than to lose. These days are exacting with most active men. Many demands and claims are made upon their time. These men are the workers in most of their campaigns. Some of them were called upon last year to give about five weeks of their time to these campaigns. One who is not pulling an oar and lending an active hand in these campaigns can easily and gracefully sit at his desk and criticize any effort to unite the campaigns. The men and women who have worn the harness of service are the persons who can best throw the real light of experienced judgment on the question. I am one of those who are willing to continue to wear the harness five weeks instead of one week, if it is deemed advisable.

We are born for co-operation, like the feet, the hands, the eyelids, and the upper and lower jaws, said some keen thinker of the ancient past. As we all know, to be effective both feet and both hands must be attached to the same body, and both eyelids to the same eyes, and both jaws to the same face.

Our own government sets us an example. It raised and spent over $3,000,000,000 for the war department last year, and over $1,000,000,000 for the naval department, and over $1,000,000,000 for aircraft and the shipping board, and various other sums for other departments connected with the war. All of these items were included in one budget. It all came from the same treasury, and was collected and handled together. Our government did not appeal to the people for three billions of dollars for the war department, and then afterwards one billion more for the naval department. It told the people that it wanted and must have a certain amount to cover all its estimated war expenditures.

The volunteer system of obtaining needed men has been found to be inadequate in a crisis such as this. In April, 1917, we had about 200,000 officers and men in the army. In April, 1918, we had about 1,700,000 officers and men. The great increase was due almost entirely to conscription which has proved to be the most equitable and only effective plan.

The war chest plan approaches more easily to conscription of funds than the present plan. In practically every city where the plan has been adopted the workers in factories and industrial plants and other wage-earners have very willingly given to the fund the returns of one-half an hour of labor each day, or about one per cent of their weekly wage, which is collected by the employers. The employers and others have given very freely and to their utmost, realizing that only the one demand would be made upon them. The givers to such a fund do not figure what they can give at the moment asked, but what they can give during the year. I am informed that in every city the amount raised as a war chest fund has been sufficient to meet all quotas given it during the year. If the giver desires his contribution to go to one special fund, such as the Red Cross, it can easily be so arranged.

Last year our campaigns cost us at least $2,500 in expenses, and at least $15,000 in the time given. The same ground was trod upon half a dozen times and the same people were solicited as many times. We must continue to have our Liberty Loan and Red Cross membership drives. Would it be worth while to eliminate the duplication of work and time and expense, and disrupt business as little as possible, and have a war fund budget, and distribute its burden more evenly?

Shall we have six or more small pyramids of war funds, or one large one? Shall we have six or more small rivulets flowing in their own separate courses or one good sized stream of patriotic funds down which all of us will unitedly sail? Shall we have six or ten small fund-battles or one real, conquering fund-battle? Is it not possible that more enthusiasm might be engendered, and more patriotism instilled, more joy of success and "over the top" victory had, as the result of all the people of this community purposing together, willing together and winning together? Think it over.

SPENCER'S GRADUATES.

Successful in Passing U. S. Civil Service Examination.

Miss Minnie Planthaber, 49 Linden avenue, and Miss Evelyn Lawrence, 9 Green street, graduates of Spencer's Business School, have received telegraphic information from Washington that they have passed successfully at the examination. Miss Planthaber will report for duty on April 16, and Miss Lawrence on May first.

On Friday, April 13, another examination for stenographers and typists will be held at the court house, and it is expected that a large number of Spencer's recent graduates will avail themselves of the opportunity offered, because the government is in urgent need of their services. The superior training given at Spencer's is a positive guarantee that pupils will be properly equipped to register for the examination.

Already several successful Civil Service appointees, graduates of Spencer's, are in Washington and they speak in high terms of their positions and salaries.

TILLSON.

Tillson April 11.—There will be preparatory services held in the Tillson Reformed Church Saturday evening, April 13, also communion services Sunday morning at eleven Sunday school immediately following. The Rev. Theodore Beskman will officiate at both. Every one come out.

Don't forget, young ladies of the church the meeting of the Missionary Society at the home of the president, Miss Vida E. Craig, Friday evening, April 12. This is our first meeting. Everyone attending will be a charter member. All the young ladies and girls of the church are urged to join this society.

The necktie social held in the church hall Saturday evening, April 6, was well attended and every one seemed to enjoy themselves. A neat little sum was realized for the church. One thing the ladies are sorry about is that a quart of ice cream, bought and left in the freezer in the hall, was gone Sunday morning. We are sorry that there are people in the neighborhood, base enough to do a thing of this sort. This is not the first time this has happened either, and the next time it happens more stringent measures will be adopted to discover and expose the thief.

THE MYSTERY OF CAMP WADSWORTH

Whether it be the product of a camera equipped with a trick lens, or just merely one of the many varieties of a cheap camera in the hands of an amateur, or whether Major Frank L. Meagher is in training for a position as fat man in a side show after the war, or has mumps and toothache, or is holding half an apple in each side of his mouth, are questions and theories that are suggested by the photograph reproduced above from a small snapshot sent by Major Meagher to a friend in this city.

According to the Major, he looks like this because army life agrees with him, as he has written a few words to that effect on the back of the photograph. Until this statement is verified Major Meagher's latest photograph will continue to be the greatest mystery of the war to his Kingston friends.

PROHIBITION NOT NECESSARY AS A WAR MEASURE

Under Federal Law, now in force, should the President at any time decide it was necessary or advisable to stop the use of barley or any other product for the making of malt beverages, in order to conserve our food supplies, he could immediately prohibit the manufacture of beer or any other commodity in which such grains or products are used.

Do not be misled into voting for a "DRY" Kingston by the argument that it is your patriotic duty to prevent barley being used for the manufacture of beer. The President will attend to that whenever it shall become necessary.

IT IS YOUR PATRIOTIC DUTY, however, in these times of stress and danger, to do everything on earth you can to keep the wheels of manufacture, commerce and industry turning at full speed.

INFLECTING PROHIBITION ON KINGSTON AT THIS TIME WILL DEVELOP ADDITIONAL CONFUSION AND CREATE A SPIRIT OF UNREST, DISTRUST AND DISCONTENT AMONG OUR PEOPLE.

BRIEF REVIEW OF THE BATTLE NEWS

By the exertion of terrific pressure all along the battle front on the Franco-Belgian frontier, during the night, the Germans gained more ground, captured the village of Merville and advanced their lines at some points about two miles.

Merville lies on the Lys river and is about seven and one-half miles from Hazebrouck, towards which point the Germans seem now to be driving from the southeast. Hazebrouck is an important railway center, seven lines running out of the place.

Fighting of great ferocity, in which huge numbers of men and guns were employed, has continued for a distance of twenty miles from La Bassee Canal sector to the Ypres Comines Canal.

The Germans concentrated their efforts in the zone immediately southwest of Armentieres (which the British evacuated on Wednesday afternoon) and in the Ploegsteert-Messines-Wyschate sector in Belgium. In the Ploegsteert district the Germans delivered a number of powerful thrusts, compelling the British to fall back upon Neuve Eglise. Neuve Eglise is about a mile and three-quarters northeast of Ploegsteert.

The Germans attacked repeatedly along this front and received numerous bloody checks. North of Ploegsteert the British delivered a strong counter blow which sent the Germans reeling from a position they had previously taken.

Ploegsteert is near the southern end of the battle zone. It lies between 5 and 4 miles northeast of Bethune and the same distance northwest of La Bassee on the canal of the same name.

The only activity reported by the British war office today from the Picardy theatre of operations was the shelling of British positions on both sides of the Somme by German artillery. That section lies immediately east of the British base at Amiens.

The French front, especially that part along the southern flank of the Amiens salient, has continued to be the scene of violent artillery duels.

"MONEY TALKS"
FOR OUR COUNTRY

Our government and to purchase Liberty Bonds. If each one does his duty the response will be far beyond our expectation.

The mayor was greeted with applause as he closed.

Pastor Schmidt-konz, pastor of the church, replied to the mayor's message as follows:

We have heard the appeal of our esteemed mayor. He has said words true and weighty. It is a pleasure to hear or read his speeches delivered at various occasions, discussing important subjects in a clean and convincing language.

In our excited times many public speakers and writers are apt to lose their heads and self-control and permit themselves to use a slang and intemperate language, which may be exciting but never convincing. Such a language generally springs from something degrading. It lowers my estimation of a man who permits himself vile expressions. It seems that some people have the idea that they can kill our enemies with their mouth.

In the German language there is a saying, "Ein gutes wort findet einen guten ort." A good word finds a good place. Our mayor has spoken a good word, and I am sure not in vain. It has found a good place in our hearts and in our minds.

We know that we are in duty bound to give our country at the present time and at all times our most earnest support, not so much in words, but in deeds, and thereby affirm and approve our loyalty.

Mr. Mayor, I have the pleasure to inform you that our church council has decided to purchase a $100 Liberty Bond for the congregation, that our Sick and Aid Society will do the same, and that I am ready to take another bond, and to take the names of those who are moved to do the same.

At the close of Pastor Schmidt-konz's reply the orchestra played "America Forever" and the male chorus of the Rondout Social Man-chor sang "Robin Adair" and another selection. The chorus was in fine voice and their efforts were greeted with applause.

The tiny tots again came forward and sang an action song entitled "Clap, Clap, Clap" which was followed by "The Pedlars" by J. Bear and G. Fowl.

The Misses Helen and Angela Cashin then rendered another dance and the day school sang a selection which was followed by a side splitting sketch, "When Women Have Their Rights," played by Mr. and Mrs. Herman LaTour and Carl Will. The sketch kept the audience in a roar until the drop of the curtain.

The exceptionally fine program was brought to a close with "It's Time to Tell You All Good-bye," sung charmingly by ten girls.

After the concert refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed. Undoubtedly there will be another record breaking attendance this evening.

MINSTRELS A SUCCESS.

Excellent Entertainment Given by Jr. O. U. A. M. Glee Club.

The minstrels given Thursday evening by the Jr. O. U. A. M. Glee Club, under the auspices of Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, in Mechanics' Hall, Henry Street, was except-tionally well presented to the large and appreciative audience that filled the hall to its capacity.

The end men, to whom much credit must be given, held the close attention of their audience throughout the entire program with their witty and sensational jokes, which caused many to almost holler for relief.

The solo work by the several members of the club was the feature of the evening, being thoroughly enjoyed by the audience, who exhibited their appreciation by giving each soloist a rousing encore, to which each responded.

The song entitled, "Here Comes America," sung by Ralph Deyo, and in which the entire circle participated, including Fred Van Deusen, the interior actor, who was dressed to represent Uncle Sam, all forming ranks and doing some excellent drill work, was well rendered and was an up to the minute production.

The circle members were dressed in colors, red, white and blue, and when the curtain arose for the start of the program it presented a glorious scene, to which the new scenery in the background good added.

After the minstrel show, Palen's orchestra rendered music for dancing. Refreshments were on sale during the evening.

The same program will be repeated this evening at 8 o'clock and every one enjoying a good laugh should endeavor to attend.

About three years ago, after the death of his sister with whom he had made his home for many years, Captain Skelly went to board with Mrs. Schumann, at whose home he died. His only surviving relative is a niece, the widow of Dr. Whiteman of Schenectady, Otsego county, N. Y. The funeral takes place Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Schumann and at 10:30 from St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. Interment in the Catholic cemetery on Rosendale Plains. There are few men who will be more greatly missed from the community than Capt. Skelly, whose upright character and friendly and charitable nature made for him a wide circle of friends during his long life.

ZYLA REPORTED MISSING TO POLICE

The police department have been asked to search for John Zyla, 46 years old, of No. 21 East Pierpont street, who left his home late Tuesday afternoon. The last seen of him was in a Mill street saloon at 10 o'clock that night. Zyla's hat was found on Ann street, but no trace of him has been obtained. He worked for the Knickerbocker Ice Company and when last seen wore grey pants and a red sweater. He wore a dark black mustache, and was 5 feet 6 inches in height and weighed about 170 pounds. It is thought that while under the influence of liquor he may have walked along the dock and fell into the Rondout creek and was drowned.

Malone Trial Finished

The Malone case was finished at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon and went to the jury.

"Pennsylvania Dutch"

Germans emigrated to Pennsylvania between 1638 and the middle of the eighteenth century and settled principally in the southeastern counties of the state. The settlers came principally from the Ithianish palatinate, Wurtemberg and Switzerland, with a sprinkling from the Lower Rhine, Bavaria, Alsace and Saxony. The settlers spoke a variety of dialects and owing to their segregation in religious communities, clung tenaciously to their mother tongue, but were gradually forced by circumstances to accept many English words. Now their language can be best described as a fusion of such dialects as were originally spoken by these people with an admixture of idiomatic English. These people consequently became known as "Pennsylvania Dutch."

Peculiar Votive Offerings

In Mexico and some other Latin-American countries the ancient practice of depositing votive offerings in places of worship still survives in a very curious form. Silver images of the whole or parts of the body, representing by form or attitude painful or diseased organs, are hung to the churches, either to express thanks for restoration to health or else to supplement appeals for divine aid in the accomplishment of a hoped-for cure. These talismans or magic images (for such in effect they are) may represent a leg, a kidney or a hand; or, in the case of complete figures, the right hand, applied to the head, the stomach or other portion of the body indicates the seat of the malady.

POSSESSION OF WINE For Religious and Sacramental Purposes Not Prohibited By Local Option Law

One of the great scares being circulated by the Liquor Interests to influence the great Catholic vote in our city against No-License is that if the city votes Dry the possession of wine for sacramental purposes will be illegal. THIS IS ABSOLUTELY FALSE. They know as little about the law as they care about it.

Chapter 814 of the Laws of 1917 passed at the extraordinary session of the legislature last August provides as follows:

The result of a vote upon a Local Option question or questions in any city or town or any provision of this chapter "shall not be deemed to prohibit, in any such town or city, the possession of wine for sacramental purposes, nor to prevent the delivery of such liquors in such town or city for such purposes or acceptance for such delivery."

Such propaganda is an insult and should be resented by the voters of all denominations. They are claiming that many of our big business enterprises will go out of business with the going out of the saloon. They are making all sorts of threats that hundreds of employees will be thrown out of work. They even go so far as to say that the government will go to pieces and the war will be lost if license is not retained. We challenge them to prove that all our business depends upon the "LIQUOR BUSINESS." When they claim that even our RELIGION depends on it, they exceed all bounds of decency. If the LIQUOR BUSINESS is doing so much for our Government, City and Homes, why not hasten to the nearest saloon, take the bar-tender by the hand or get hold of the BREWERY [What brewery does The Freeman mean,] congratulate them heartily on the splendid showing they have made in the past year; tell them we hope they will do better next year and give them our blessing for the great public service they have performed. The Freeman thinks that the booze will be brought in by "Bootleggers," a new name for the agents of THE BREWERY; the Leader thinks there is going to be a great exodus of our people to the few wet spots that will be left. Well, which of our newspapers is right. We would suggest that if they want to help The Brewery out, they get together. Vote "NO" on all four questions.

Do not be fooled into voting against what YOU KNOW TO BE RIGHT by such silly arguments. THE BALLOT IS YOURS. You would sacrifice the last "Personal Liberty" you have if you listen to all the threats that are being made. Kingston expects every man and woman to do his and her duty.

BOY SCOUTS BUSY WITH USEFUL WORK

Will Collect Local Newspapers for Soldiers in Camps—Other Lines of Activity Being Followed.

Were you ever away from home and wished for some news from the old town? A letter is good but you can not put all the local news under a three cent stamp. The boys in the camps are hungry for news, they rush for a newspaper from home as they do for the mess tent after a long hike. Just compare your anxiety for the arrival of the news boy who comes every day to your door with that of boys miles away who receive a paper from home perhaps once a week. Can't we arrange to send a bunch of papers every day to the different camps where our boys are stationed?

The Red Cross has asked the Boy Scouts to collect the local papers for this purpose. Each Scout is asked to visit his neighbors each day and collect the paper of the day before. Bring the papers to Scout headquarters and they will be forwarded to the camps.

Scout Tests.

There are so many demands made for the services of the Boy Scouts that it is an easy thing to forget Scouting and Scout advancement. How many tests have you passed lately? The executive has given only 8 tests since March 1. One troop in the city has taken only 9 tests since last July.

We must not forget the Scout program in the midst of our war program. Scoutmasters should devote at least a part of each meeting to some phase of scouting and prepare their Scouts for tests.

Fire and Drum Corps.

The regular rehearsal of the new drum corps was held yesterday afternoon. The drums are coming along very good while the files are a close second. The next meeting will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock when it is expected every member will be present as it is the intention of Mr. Bircher to have them practice together from now on. Boys, just think of the pleasure of marching behind your own music. This is your organization. Get behind it.

Don't Start Loan Work Until April 27

All Scout officials have been notified that the work of the Scouts in selling Liberty Loan Bonds will not start until April 27. The new date was fixed in accordance with the latest official information that the general campaign will close May 4th instead of April 30th. Every Scout should understand that there is to be no soliciting of bonds before the 27th. It is not the idea for the Scouts to interfere with the work of agencies already selling bonds. The duty of the Boy Scouts as stated by President Wilson is to act as gleaners after the reapers have secured the greater number of bonds. Scouts are expected to sell bonds to people whom the local committees overlook. Don't start any work or make plans for work until you have received the manual of instructions prepared by the government. When you get it be sure to read it from cover to cover.

Hikes.

Scoutmasters and patrol leaders should not fail to observe that it is contrary to the policy of Scouting for a troop or a patrol to go on a hike unless there is an adult leader present. Many accidents have happened as a result of the violation of this rule and we cannot afford to run chances. This rule has been violated at least once in this city but we trust that it was because the patrol leader and scoutmaster were unfamiliar with the ruling.

War Saving Stamps.

What is your troop record in the W. S. S. Campaign? At present the record stands as follows:

Troop No. 1, $250, sold by Scout Maccholdt.

Troop No. 5, $172.25.

Troop No. 8, $241.60.

What about Troop No. 4. We haven't received your report yet. Scoutmasters are requested to get a report in to headquarters at once.

Troop Items—Troop No. 1.

At the regular meeting of the troop held last Thursday arrangements were made for participating in the Liberty Loan parade and for the meeting at the armory at which ten members of Troop No. 1 received War Service Emblems.

Scout George Walters was remembered during his recent illness with a bouquet of flowers for which we received a card of thanks. All members of Troop No. 1 wish him a quick recovery.

There will be an important meeting this evening at 7:30 at the Y. M. C. A.

We are expected to have 100% participation in the Third Liberty Loan and all members are requested to attend the meeting tonight. The scout executive will be present and explain the merit system.

Troop No. 4.

At the meeting held last Monday evening the Wolf Patrol led in the Merit System. Two new members were brought in and signed on the troop records. A meeting will be held this evening at 7:30 in the church chapel. All scouts are urged to be present as important business will be brought up.

Troop No. 5.

The troop meeting was postponed this week. The Blazing Arrow Patrol leads in Merit Points. Ten members from Troop No. 5 received War Service Emblems at meeting held at the armory last Saturday. There will be a regular meeting of the troop next Tuesday.

At the last meeting of the troop the Beaver Patrol with Edmond Mahar as patrol leader had the most points. George Matthews had the greatest number of individual points. We are glad to welcome Edward Leverett, Jr., to our membership. There will be a meeting in the chapel tonight. Herbert Bircher will be present and give the troop something new in scouting. Mr. Bircher comes from Middletown where he was connected with the Boy Scout movement. Let us have 100% attendance.

HIGHEST TIDE IN YEARS IN CREEK

Thursday and today saw the highest tide in years in the Rondout creek, caused by the high east wind that blew. In many places along the creek the docks were flooded. The only time that the tide has been known to be higher was during a freshet in the creek. Rivermen stated that the tide today was fully two feet above normal.

Another barge has been launched at the shipyard of Rafferty & Pessio in Ponckhockie. This makes thirteen barges that have been built at the yard since it opened.

The Skillypot is still off the route undergoing repairs at Hillebrand's shipyard. The stormy weather has caused a delay in making the repairs, as it put to stop to practically all work on the shipyards along the creek.

400-Year-Old Flat.

A writer in the Building Age describes in an interesting way a 400-year-old apartment house in a Chinese village about 800 miles from Hongkong. Built in a circle, it is five stories high, massively constructed of stone and brick, and can hold more than 1,000 persons. There is only one entrance, a very strong gate, capable of standing a long siege. Undoubtedly the house was built to withstand the pirates and robbers that terrorized the province in the old days. The house has its numerous counterparts in the public villages of the Southwest of the United States. Peaceful Indian tribes, like the Hopis, sought refuge from marauding Apaches on lofty isolated rocks in the deserts and built their wonderful community houses on almost inaccessible summits like Acoma. The houses, constructed of adobe brick, were arranged stepwise, the upper stories being gained by means of outside ladders. They are still inhabited, and contain hundreds of families.

IN THE SERVICE OF OUR COUNTRY

RALPH VAN DEMARK.

Son of Willis Van Demark of Briarcliff, N. Y., was born in Bloomington and enlisted in the navy in 1915 and re-enlisted March 24, 1917. He was stationed aboard the battleship Arizona up to January of this year when he was transferred to the navy machine shops at Charleston, S. C., where he is now located.

A cablegram from France announces the safe arrival of Lawrence Davis of Kerhonkson.

Corporal James J. Sullivan on the casualty list, recently published in The Freeman is a member of the 165th Regiment and a resident of New York city.

Fire at Gardiner.

Monday, April 8, fire destroyed the residence of George Bowers at Gardiner. A defective chimney was the cause of the blaze. Neither the house nor its contents were insured and are a total loss.

Versatile.

A versatile man is one who can talk at the right time and keep still when there is nothing to say.

Prehistoric Civilization.

People of the present age need not think they are the only bright fellows there ever were. There are prehistoric people in different parts of the United States—particularly in the south—whose civilization of long ago, for they are far beyond anything that would have been possible to the Indians who inhabited the country, when the first white settlers came, is being brought to the light of day by the discovery of the remains of their civilization systems. One of the most famous of these is on the Arizona high plain, near Prescott to the Grand Canyon. Water is taken from what is known as Montezuma's well, a curious natural well 440 feet in diameter and 93 feet deep, except in one spot, where no bottom has been reached at 500 feet.

Poor Kind of Joke.

A woman of uncertain age required the services of a page boy and inserted in the local paper an advertisement headed: "Youth wanted."

One of her friends, with little humor and less taste, sent her a bottle of a celebrated wrinkle remover, a pot of fairy bloom, a set of false teeth and a flaxen wig!

MORAN BUSINESS SCHOOL.

Business and Civil Service Positions Accepted by Graduates.

Equipped and specially trained for efficient business service, the following graduates and students of Moran Business School have taken their initial steps as stenographers and bookkeepers—fore-runners to successful careers.

Miss Frances Patton, of the evening sessions, has accepted a very desirable position as stenographer and bookkeeper with Costello & Dugan, Wall street, this city.

William F. Abernathy, real estate and insurance broker of this city, has engaged Miss Jeannette Purman, a stenographer and office assistant, through Moran Business Service Bureau.

Frederic Woodard, of the combined course, has been placed in a high grade position as stenographer and typist with the Standard Oil Company, this city.

Another excellent position recently filled by the Moran Business Service Bureau is that of clerk and stenographer with the Herbert Brush Mfg. Co., in which Miss Florence Kolls, of the evening sessions, is giving perfect satisfaction.

Having passed the United States Civil Service examination for clerk, with knowledge of stenography and typewriting, Miss Ruth Halverson, a graduate of the stenographic department, left yesterday for Washington, D. C., where she will be appointed to an excellent position in the quarter-master department.

Joseph Hazen, now employed in the treasury department, Washington, spent a few days in town recently. He is meeting with very gratifying success in government service.

Charles F. Jenks, an experienced graduate of Moran School, has obtained a good position with the Kingston Shipbuilding Corporation.

Calls for young men continue to come in faster than the school is able to supply them. Opportunities for girls are also very great, many additional avenues of employment now being open to them. The shortage of young men and fuller appreciation of the natural aptitude of girls for office positions are opening the doors of hundreds of additional institutions to young women. The important thing is to secure the proper training—the kind imparted at Moran Business School.

EXPERT SAYS HUMAN BLOOD WAS ON PANTS

Chemical Expert Did Not Find It On

Malone's Coat, However—Defense Offered No Testimony—Summed Up Today.

The Malone murder case in county court was resumed at 4:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon without the defense having offered any testimony. A variety of testimony was given during the afternoon and the case was expected to be summed up this morning, but when court convened at 10 o'clock recess was taken until 12:30 o'clock this afternoon in order that the addresses of counsel and the charges of the court to the jury might proceed without any interruption or recess.

Blood Damp And Sticky.

Coroner George Sutter, re-called, testified at the place where the body lay about 10 o'clock and removed the sheet. Joe was dressed in a blue coat and light blue overalls. The coat was damp around the back of the neck, and was stained there.

The blood on the stone was not liquid but was damp and sticky which also was true of the blood along the lane. From the shanty he took the insurance policy and book which he retained until directed by the surrogate to turn them over to Mr. Tuttle, the undertaker.

Cross-examination:

Did not talk with anyone regarding the case during the noon recess.

Tracing the Clothing.

William P. Glass, stenographer for the district attorney's office, testified that on the afternoon of September 27 he went to Newburgh with Sheriff Shults and Chief of Police Wood, and while in Newburgh visited the West Shore baggage room where Mr. Multry, the baggage agent, turned over a valise to Under Sheriff Scott D. Hornbeck, who gave a receipt for it. Mr. Glass took the valise from Mr. Multry in Mr. Hornbeck's presence and it was brought to Kingston, where it has since been in the exhibit closet of the district attorney's office. It was opened for examination since when the contents have been undisturbed. Mr. Glass identified the valise and clothing.

Before the grand jury certain articles were removed from the pockets of the coat by Mr. Traver, marked by Mr. Traver and replaced. These articles were a military enrollment notice, a religious picture, receipt and business card. The valise also contained some shoe strings.

Other articles of clothing were delivered by Jailer Jocelyn to Mr. Glass, who turned them over to Dr. Butterfield at the Central Testing Laboratories at No. 145 North street, New York city, conducted by the city of New York, later receiving them from the doctor. Samples of clothing were sent to Dr. E. E. Butterfield, New York city by registered mail about April first. A blue hat also was received from Jailer Jocelyn by Mr. Glass; a brown hat from Police Officer Adams; a brown hat from Coroner Sutter; all of which are in the same condition as when received.

A gun metal watch with flag job attached and other articles were received by Mr. Glass.

No cross-examination.

Pants Showed Human Blood.

Dr. Elmore E. Butterfield testified he had been a pathological chemist for 14 years; having graduated from Washington Institute, connected with Ann Arbor University and the Rockefeller Institute, and with the Central Testing Laboratories. For five years he was engaged in examining the chemical properties of human blood. There was an accepted standard procedure, he said, known as the precipitin test, to determine the presence of human blood on any article. He applied the precipitin test to certain portions of the suit furnished to him by Mr. Glass; the samples of cloth which were cut out for testing purposes were labeled and kept under lock and key. Two samples—one from each trouser leg—gave a positive test, a precipitate, the re-agent in this case being rapid serum. According to all accepted views the samples showed the presence of human blood.

Corpus Blood Not Injected.

The clothing was delivered in December; the test was finished March 31. Describing the precipitin test, Dr. Butterfield said he injected human blood in the body of four rabbits in one day. One rabbit died.

The blood was obtained from a patient in the hospital by the interne.

Q—"Was it corpus blood?"
A—"No. I will state that as a fact."

Q—"How do you know?"
A—"There were no autopsies in the hospital that day."

Dr. Butterfield based this statement on the fact that the autopsy "he was not in use when he was there that day."

Corpus blood, he said, might cause death of a rabbit if injected. The test was made on March 31 when the anti-human serum was withdrawn. The solid matter was tested by N. W. Roche for Heman Crystals which identifies the blood pigment, but does not identify it as human blood. The clear liquid was tested for its ability to produce a cloud. The blood from only two rabbits was drawn from testing; one should precipitate several minutes sooner than the other. The elements of a good anti-serum are good precipitate within twenty minutes; the sooner, the better.

The anti-human serum was examined by the naked eye. One serum was clear; one was slightly opalescent.

He disagreed with the statement that "any opalescence may lead to the gravest error," because "opalescence" was the improper term which had come into inaccurate use; the term "onameness" should be used.

Q—"You want to take it on yourself to determine the meaning given to a word by a writer?"

A—"He may have used the improper terminology."

Q—"I am using the terminology of your profession."

A—"The terminology of my profession is a very broad and mysterious one."

Mr. Loughran demanded that the witness turn to the jury and repeat that statement.

The part of the sleeve which was tested was larger than the parts of the trousers.

Q—"You swear that the stains on the legs of the trousers were human blood?"

A—"Yes."

Q—"That ought to work both ways. If the stains on the trousers gave a precipitate showing evidence of blood and the stains on the coat sleeve gave no precipitate, then it would not be inaccurate to say that these stains were not human blood?"

A—"No."

The samples from the trousers used in testing were about the size of a twenty-five cent piece and about the size of a ten cent piece. The sample from the coat contained 3.7 square inches.

He said he had used Allen's Commercial Organic Analysis as a work of reference, but did not agree with the statement it contained that to differentiate the blood of man from that of animals is a practical impossibility unless the corpuscles can be measured. He disagreed with that statement most emphatically both in his experience and what he had read in medical journals.

Q—"That is to say, you disagree with what you have read in this book because you have read the contrary somewhere else?"

A—"In journals and monographs."

Among the monographs he had read was one by Uhlenhuth.

Q—"Do you test by the naked eye?"

A—"Yes."

Mr. Loughran read Uhlenhuth's method of testing by filtration.

"He may have used it sometimes," said the witness, but that is a method for cleaning and not testing."

Q—"Is your method any better?"

A—"Not any better."

Q—"Is it as good?"

A—"I would say it is equally as good."

He followed Uhlenhuth in some things and disagreed in others.

Mr. Loughran read from Allen's Analysis that "tests cannot be regarded as conclusive," but Dr. Butterfield when asked if he agreed said "if he defines 'conclusive' I could answer."

Q—"In what sense do you use 'conclusive'?"

A—"In the sense of final."

Q—"Assuming that meaning, do you agree?"

A—"If the specific exception is noted, in which the reaction is given by other than human blood, I would agree, but not otherwise."

Dr. Butterfield said that so far as he knew, alcohol had no effect on blood corpuscles.

Q—"If anyone used a microscopic test after the clothes had been rumpled and exposed to the sunlight, would it amount to anything?"

A—"Not in my opinion."

Q—"A learned doctor here yesterday swore he made that test and today he came to the same conclusion as you do. In your opinion is his opinion good for anything?"

An objection that Dr. Butterfield could not characterize the testimony of another witness, even an expert, was sustained.

Expert Roelke Agrees.

David E. Roelke, of Brooklyn, chemist in the same laboratory, who studied in Berlin and Heidelberg, testified in regard to the tests of the samples that the Heman test was first applied, and then the precipitin test, the latter showing that the samples taken from the trousers showed human blood.

Pants Above Shoe Tops.

Coroner Sutter, recalled, testified that on the morning when the first Shults had noticed the day before, went to the Morano farm; the pants were pulled up about a foot above the shoe tops.

Tried to Get Joe to Sit Up.

Vincent Morano, recalled, testified that when he first saw Joe, he took hold and tried to get him to sit up. Nobody touched the body, coming after that until Dr. Palmer came, and from the time the doctor left until the coroner arrived.

Cross-examination:

Joe usually got up early and had the horses fed and stables cleaned by the time Morano got up. Sometimes he saw him and sometimes he didn't. On this morning he went to the barn, saw the horses, had not been fed, looked over at the shack and called to Joe, then went up the hill without going over to the shack.

The various articles of clothing heretofore marked for identification were offered in evidence by District Attorney Traver on the question of motive and identity of the defendant as the person who committed the murder.

Mr. Loughran objected to the blue and green suit on various grounds. The clothing was received in evidence, also the russet valise, watch and fob, which were offered for the same purposes as the clothing and to show the fruits of the homicide.

Jailer Seth Jocelyn, re-called, testified that on the day Malone left jail he wore a light brown hat, which he identified.

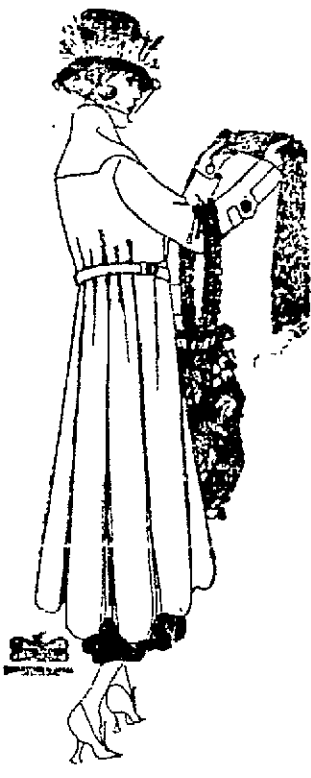

Mrs. Morano Present When Suit Was Bought.

Lucy Morano, wife of Vincent Morano, testified she lived in New York and sometimes was in Marlborough
